Commander of Italia Radios of Seeing Them, But Pilots Did Not Observe Signals.

PLANES REMAIN NEAR FOR HOUR

Rescue Ships Piloted by Riiser-Larsen and Holm Make Trip; More Planes at Spitzbergen.

Rome, June 18.—(P)—The two Norwegian fliers, Captain Riiser-Larsen and Lieutenant Luetzow Holm, today made a second unsuccessful attempt to find General Umberto Nobile and the party with him north of Spitzbergen. They returned to the ice breaker Braganza without having sighted the marooned men.

Nobile, however, informed the base ship Citta di Milano by wireless that he had seen one of the planes fly within two kilometers of him.

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 18.—(P)—High overhead yesterday General Umberto Nobile saw two seaplanes sent to rescue him and his comrades from the Arctic ice-floes, but frantic efforts to signal the planes or make known their existence below failed. After an hour's reconnaissance above the craft were seen to disappear in the grim Arctic horizon, flying back toward Spitzbergen.

This news came to the base ship Citta di Milano today by wireless from the stranded Italia commander, who for days has been awaiting on a slowly moving ice floe sight of someone from the outside world who might aid in returning him and his mates on the Italia to civilization and home. Sunday they thought their day of watching perhaps over. But they failed to count on the trickiness of the snow with visibility and when help had passed them by their situation was no anything more difficult than before.

The two seaplanes were those piloted by Captain Riiser-Larsen and Lieutenant Luetzow Holm. Both set out early Sunday and took a course over Beverly sound, North Cape, and Cape Platen, keeping at a height of from 750 to 900 feet, visibility was good, but when they returned to Spitzbergen they had not seen a trace of the Italia's commander and the remnant of his crew. This despite the fact that messages from General Nobile indicated they had remained above and in the vicinity for more than an hour.

Today Riiser-Larsen and Holm set out for further reconnaissance, intending, if there were to be variations at all in their course, to keep between their route yesterday and the coast of Northeast Land.

The fliers returning yesterday said they found the ice in the area where the fliers are supposed to be much too rough for landing. They said the ice floes were opening considerably, and the cracks and openings were still too narrow for landing attempts by the seaplanes. They were, however, anxious to foster progress by the ice-breaker.

The three seaplanes waiting at Thomsen, Norway, are expected here early tomorrow to aid in the search for the Italia's crew.

TAX ZONE VOTED FOR ELIMINATION OF 'BOTTLE NECK'

VOTERS IMPORTED, BARRETT ALLEGES

Action Taken After Hearing Owners of Property on Peachtree Between Baker and Ivy.

Elimination of the "bottle neck" on Peachtree street between Baker and Ivy streets by establishment of a taxing zone to widen the thoroughfare was ordered Monday by city council with one dissenting vote, that of Councilman James Wells, of the eighth ward.

Action of the city's governing body came following a public hearing at which those favoring and opposing the improvement spoke or were represented.

The paper went to council with a favorable recommendation of the streets committee, headed by Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, of the third ward, and was championed on the floor by Councilman Harry York, of the sixth, and Alderman Robert F. Pennington, of the first.

Philip Alston favored the project as the "salvation of Peachtree street," and while agreeing in the main with those who opposed establishment of a taxing zone for the purpose, he declared he favored the improvement in that manner rather than "longer stifle the progress of the thoroughfare."

James L. Dickey and others also appeared urging council to pass the proposal to establish the taxing zone rather than abandon the projected improvement. They stated that any taxing zone lines which might be drawn would be arbitrary and would meet with a "certain amount of opposition."

Former Governor John M. Slaton appeared in behalf of Mrs. Slaton, who owns considerable frontage along the affected area; Sam Hewlett appeared for St. Elmo Massengale and Lindsay Hopkins for Mr. Rich & Brothers company, also owners along the route.

They declared the zoning system is a dangerous precedent and will react to discourage ownership of centrally located business property. They branded the system as confiscatory, discriminatory and unfair inasmuch as the properties along the street from Ellis to Ponce de Leon will be benefited and side streets will be enhanced.

OPTION EXERCISED ON ROCK MOUNTAIN

Piedmont Corporation Acquires Large Block of Granite Near Lithonia; Big Plant Planned.

Exercising an option on Rock Chapel mountain, three and one-half miles northeast of Lithonia, the Piedmont corporation of Atlanta and New York Monday acquired ownership of the large block of solid granite which had been owned for many years by Charles J. Haden, of Atlanta, it was announced Monday night by H. Cobb, of Atlanta, who has been conducting negotiations for the Piedmont corporation.

H. F. Hyde, of New York, said to be the leading stockholder in the Piedmont corporation, was in the city Monday to close with Mr. Haden for the property, it was learned. The Piedmont corporation's main office was said to have been moved recently from New York to Atlanta, where offices were obtained in the Bon-A-Alton building.

Details of construction near Rock Chapel mountain of the huge rock crushing plant, which, it was said Saturday, probably would be the largest in the South and one of the largest in the country, were not disclosed by Mr. Cobb.

Information on the construction of a standard gauge railroad from Lithonia to Rock Chapel mountain, four miles in length, also was refused. The railroad is under construction and it is understood that it will be completed in six months.

Mr. Cobb stated that Georgia's road program is in a deplorable condition. He asserted that the plan might not be built until the state's policy is changed, so that the proposed plant would have an outlet for its crushed rock.

The projected plant, it was said in Lithonia Saturday, with the purchase of land, Rock Chapel mountain and the building of the railroad, would bring the project of the Piedmont corporation to around $400,000.

RITCHIE QUILTS: THROWS VOTES TO AL SMITH

Maryland Governor Withdraws From Democratic Race, Declaring Smith Is Best Man in Party.

HARMONY IS NEEDED ABOVE ALL ELSE

Pays Glowing Tribute to New Yorker for Honesty, Fearlessness and Ability to Govern.

Baltimore, June 18.—(P)—Withdrawing from the field of democratic presidential candidates within just a week of the national convention at Houston, Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, in a statement to the Associated Press tonight said that "Governor Smith is in every way fitted by experience, character and ability to assume the leadership" and has the best chance to win. In step aside for the "justifies the people's faith in democracy," Governor Ritchie added that he would instruct the Maryland delegation to cast its strength for Governor Smith.

There was no expectation in the Marylander's mind that he would be offered the vice presidency, but even though it might be, he will not accept it.

"I am profoundly convinced that no consideration of self or of personal advancement on any one's part should be allowed to stand for one moment in the way of the success of the democratic party which is the natural champion of self government and popular self-rule," Governor Ritchie said.

"It has become increasingly evident that the great majority of the democratic party in almost every section of the country are ready to align themselves behind the leadership of Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York."

"Governor Smith is in every way fitted by experience, character and ability to assume the leadership. He has proved himself a fearless and efficient administrator of the greatest state in the union and his record is a guarantee that with him as president, honesty in government would take the place of corruption in government, and that the natural resources of the country would be protected."

"Whatever contributes to democratic unity will in turn contribute to democratic victory. I think it is offered."

FINANCE SHEET GIVEN APPROVAL

Grady Orderlies Lose Proposed Pay Raise and Money Goes to Sanitary Department.

The June finance sheet was approved by city council Monday afternoon with only one amendment, the aldermanic board concurring in council's action on the money paper.

The sole amendment to the finance sheet provided for the transfer of $1,040 from the department of Grady hospital, which had been intended for an increase of from $8 to $9 a week in salary for the orderlies, to the sanitary department to increase the salary of 79 truck drivers by 10 cents a day each.

The finance sheet provides the following new items: $7,700 for garage pay rolls and repairs; $1,500 for auditorium repairs in anticipation of the medical convention; $8,000 additional pay rolls for the sanitary department; $850 for the health department; and $3,450 for a boiler and housekeeper for Battle Hill sanitarium.

Street improvement items include: Candler field, $3,000; Peters street, $20,000; general street repair fund, $5,000; Spring street sidewalk, $1,500 and Lillian street widening, $2,000.

THEA RASCHE GETS WOMAN'S BACKING FOR OCEAN JUMP

New York, June 18.—(P)—Thea Rasche, German girl flier, with the backing of a mysterious woman, has begun preparations for a trans-Atlantic flight, she announced today.

While no official announcement of the identity of the woman backer was made, several indications pointed to Mrs. James A. Stillman, wife of the banker. Mrs. Stillman recently made a flight in a plane piloted by Miss Rasche.

The German aviatrix said today she would hop off at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning for Old Orchard, Me., where test flights preparatory to the over-seas jump would be made.

The plane which Miss Rasche will fly is a Bellanca monoplane formerly owned by A. R. Martine, banker.

SMITH DOMINATES PARTY AS BRYAN DID FOR 30 YEARS

Passing of Commoner Leaves New Yorker Undisputedly Greatest Force at Houston.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
En Route, Houston, Texas, June 18. (United News.)—While it is never safe to make predictions about democratic national conventions, the one about to be held at Houston ought to be more harmonious than any of its predecessors.

The friends of Governor Smith will dominate this convention more completely than any single group has dominated any other democratic convention recently except in 1916 when the democrats merely met to officially go through the motions of renominating Woodrow Wilson.

Smith, who in 1920 first appeared before a democratic convention as a minor favorite son, now stands out as the dominant leader of the party, first by reason of his record during four terms as governor of New York, and second, because there is no real figure around which the opposition to Smith can gather.

Bryan Is No More.
The mighty Bryan is gone—this will be the first convention since 1896 which will not be subjected, more or less, to his influence.

The most important of today's political situation with William M. Butler, chairman of the national republican committee and manager of its own campaign in 1924.

Butler arrived in Superior early this morning and after a preliminary conversation with Everett Sanders, secretary to the president, and Edward T. Clark, Mr. Coolidge's personal secretary, he motored to Cedar Island lodge with the expectation of staying there overnight as guest of Mr. Coolidge.

No Special Motive.
Butler said before going to see Mr. Coolidge that his visit had no special motive, not even the desire to acquaint the chief executive with events at the Kansas City convention, since Everett Sanders, who also attended the republican meeting, could supply all required first-hand information.

It was reported, however, that Mr. Coolidge was very anxious to meet another witness of the Kansas City convocation to supplement from other angles the information which he had already received. Butler said he expected to remain here only a very short time before returning directly to Boston without going to Washington to be present on June 21 when 24 representatives of the national republican committee will confer with Secretary Hoover on campaign organization.

He added that he had no information on the selection of the new chairman of the republican committee, but he supposed the committee would be called together following the conference next Thursday for choosing officers.

Rain and Cold.
Discouraged by steady rain and cold wind from undertaking the 33-mile ride into Superior, President Coolidge decided this morning to postpone for one more day his first call on his right heel, which caused him to limp even before leaving Washington, and which has not completely healed, also influenced his decision not to leave the lodge or undertake any long walks.

He called upon Clark, however, to bring out to his residence the more important of the papers and documents which have accumulated on his desk since his departure from Washington. Among the matters taken out were the justice department report and other documents regarding the appeal for commutation of death sentences imposed upon Samuel M. Proctor for the murder, in Washington, D. C., in September, 1925, of a policeman. The stay of execution elapses next Friday.

Lenroot Delays Visit.
Owing to Mr. Coolidge's decision not to leave his residence, former Senator Irvine Lenroot, of Washington, has been obliged to postpone his scheduled call on the chief executive.

The rain kept the president and Mrs. Coolidge close to the lodge all day. Mrs. Coolidge ventured forth for a short time in a raincoat and inspected the boats but did not stay long. Meals were served in the lodge rather than in the dining hall on the mainland.

The camp attendants also kept under cover as much as their duties permitted, the three white house dogs being the only ones to take any apparent pleasure in the day's rain. It was announced that Mr. Coolidge would not attempt to make the trip to the executive offices here tomorrow.

Miss Earhart Confesses She Was Just Passenger

SKIES TOO CLOUDY FOR HER TO PILOT

Pembrey, Carmarthenshire, Wales, June 18.—(United News.)—Miss Amelia Earhart, who traveled from Trepassy Bay, N. E., to Llanelly, Wales, in 20 hours and 40 minutes, checked in at the Ashurham hotel here tonight. She carried her own luggage, consisting of one toothbrush. The Boston girl and her two pilots who crossed the Atlantic in the monoplane Friendship told me of their flight with fog and rain on the hazardous flight. Miss Earhart said she was willing to attempt the return flight under the proper conditions.

"I want to make it clear," she said in an interview in her room, "that I was a passenger on this trip. I did not handle the controls at any time because conditions were so unfavorable that we were forced to fly by instruments practically all the way. I have had no practice at instrument flying and I did not want to risk our lives just for the honor of being pilot part of the way."

Miss Earhart showed only slight signs of fatigue after almost 36 sleepless hours. Her pale blue eyes alone betrayed her need for rest.

"We flew practically 2,000 miles in, above, or between fog banks," she continued. "Our altitude was from 2,500 to 11,000 feet. Even at the greatest altitude, we could not get above the fog."

"I did not worry during the entire trip. Not for a moment did I have anything but complete confidence in my companions."

Miss Earhart said she enjoyed every minute of the flight.

She was asked if she would attempt the flight from east to west.

"Yes," was the reply, "provided I had the right sort of a machine and enough fuel to make the trip."

COOLIDGE TALKS ON G. O. P. ACTION

President Called On To Discuss Politics With Butler; Rain Keeps Him Inside House.

Tri-Motored Monoplane Speeds Through Clouds From Trepassy to Burry Port, in Wales.

GAS EXHAUSTED WHEN SHIP LANDS

Boston Social Worker Beats Mabel Boll on Flight to Europe and Gains Many Honors.

Burry Port, Wales, June 18.—(P)—The first woman ever to cross the Atlantic ocean in an airplane and the two men who aided her in the crossing tonight sought well-earned repose in this little Welsh town.

Today, shortly after noon Miss Amelia Earhart, of Boston, with Wilmer Stultz, pilot, and Louis Gordon, landed their tri-motored monoplane "Friendship" in Burry Port Estuary, off this port, completing in 20 hours and 40 minutes the flight from Trepassy Bay, Newfoundland.

Tomorrow they will fly the Friendship to Southampton, which, as an alternative to Valencia Bay, Ireland, they had set as the goal of their trans-oceanic flight. Southampton they missed by flying about 130 miles too far northwest.

It was shortly after noon that watchers on the Welsh coast saw an airplane approaching from the southwest like a great black bird. As it drew nearer the drone of its three powerful engines became audible, but over Llanelly railway that it dawdled on the curious crowds that this was the Friendship, and that aboard it was the first woman to cross the Atlantic in an airplane.

See Stars and Stripes.
The stars and stripes painted on the fuselage and the printed letters of its name could be seen. Once Burry Port had seen this insignia it was a town transported with excitement.

After circling gracefully a few minutes the plane continued at a low altitude along the river to the coast, when it narrowly escaped disaster by a hair's breadth. A few yards from the side of the Burry Port copper works chimney stack. Observers held their breath, but the plane slipped by without incident, landing a few minutes later in the Estuary. The tide almost dead low when the plane skimmed the water, trailing up to a buoy where the fliers made fast while launches and boats from the shore scudded out to greet them.

The great voyage from America had ended, their dreams were realized, and the plane and its occupants safe "on land" once more.

The entire population of this little town soon had rushed to greet the fliers, and the entire district about here was soon in a ferment of excitement.

SEATTLE GREETES 5,000 KIWANIS

Seattle, Wash., June 18.—Five thousand Kiwanians of the 100,000 membership in the United States and Canada have arrived here for the 12th annual convention of the organization this week. General business sessions began today.

Those present from Atlanta are: International president, Henry C. Heinz and Mrs. Heinz; president Atlanta Kiwanis, Fred S. Snel and Mrs. Snel; Robert H. Jones, Jr., Alfred C. Newell, J. Frank Fair, E. Franklin Bandy, Fenn C. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hillside and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Miller.

Each nation possesses its problems, and ours of the present period are especially perplexing due to a variety of causes. John H. Moss, of Milwaukee, a former president, told 10,000 Kiwanians and Seattle citizens at a religious musicale last night.

"Contributing factors to the problems are the eroding of gold, increase of human wants, excess excitement, lessening of parental control, loosening of moral restraints, advocacy of compaionate marriage, distribution of indecent literature, superabundance of legislation, lack of reflective meditation, wholesale dissemination of crime news, and the disregard for law.

"Nature is constantly preordaining and we lose its message amidst the deafening noises of a restless world," he said.

The Kiwanian stated, however, that retrogression was not one of his accepted theories. "I maintain that the world is better today than ever before," Mr. Moss stated.

"The most casual analysis of the advance in learning, the development of inventive genius, and the progress in the arts and sciences provides positive proof of progression."

"For noble manhood and womanhood we must have a revival of a quieter and more modest mode of living. One of our greatest influences is a fiery fondness for the home, for home life inspires a sense of obligation to family and to society."

"Our poverty today is in not having more Washingtons and Lincolns, more Morges and Edisons, more Emersons and Lowells, more Leachos and Servises, more Byrds and Lindberghs. Let Kiwanis, the church, and the school strive to encourage education. Back to fundamentals should be the slogan of our age. The adoption of such a program would solve most of our personal perplexities and many of our communities and national problems."

The Under-Privileged Child.
More than 1,700 of our clubs are now engaged in giving a greater personal service to under-privileged children. J. Hayden Oliver, of Scranton, Pa., chairman of the committee on under-privileged children, told the delegates this afternoon.

"This personal service is carried on with all the other activities, such as work at orphanages and institutions, with crippled children, health camps, clinics and general education," Mr. Oliver remarked.

A greater personal service for a child means the devotion of a member's time and thought to maintain a friendly relation in order to study conditions hindering normal development. For the past number of years work has been going on primarily with boys. Now, however, the organization is to work as much with girls. The assistance of the wives of Kiwanians is eagerly sought, especially in connection with girls' work," said Mr. Oliver.

In many communities a large field of activities for boys and girls work has already been started. For this reason Kiwanians were urged to give service by cooperation with established welfare agencies. "Any good work of this kind should receive every club's earnest support," stated Mr. Oliver.

"All that Kiwanis seeks is a square deal for the under-privileged child."

More than 1,700 Kiwanis clubs in cities of the United States and Canada will meet simultaneously tonight with the convention session here here (Pacific standard time—8:15 p. m.).

Heads Kiwanis Meet.

Henry C. Heinz, of Atlanta, president of Kiwanis International, presided over a nationwide meeting of Kiwanis clubs of the United States and Canada, meeting simultaneously today, for a united expression of tribute to the usefulness of service of Kiwanis International is being held in Seattle, Wash., from June 17-21.

CALIFORNIA FIRES RUIN GRAIN FIELDS, BURN EQUIPMENT

Sacramento, Calif., June 18.—(AP)—Two fires which had burned grain fields and farm equipment valued at close to $500,000 were being fought today in one of the most fertile districts of California.

Farmers and firemen with chemical fire fighting apparatus from Arbutle, Grimes, Colusa and College City had joined forces in their effort to check the flames. With the United States weather bureau predicting "increasing fire hazard" for northern California today, hundreds of men were on the fire lines.

More than 6,000 acres of grain had burned south of Colusa and near College City. The latter blaze was reported out of control.

For a united expression of gratitude for the good will and accomplishment of the organization during the past year.

my duty to do my part, and I do it gladly."

Statement in Full.
Ritchie's statement follows in full: "I am profoundly convinced that no consideration of self or of personal advancement on anyone's part should be allowed to stand for one moment in the way of success of the democratic party which is the natural champion of self-government and popular self-rule."

"These principles are challenging the attention of the country today as they have not done for years. To them I have dedicated such political effort as I am able to exert. Faith in them saved the south during the dark days of reconstruction and made possible a reunited and happy nation, and as a son of the south I have brought to the struggle for these principles the enthusiasm and the loyalty which came to me from my ancestors who were ready to die and some of whom did die for the cause in which they believed."

"As a democrat I have regarded this struggle as a duty and as an American I believe that the dictate of patriotism require the reestablishment of these principles in our national life."

"That may own state should think me worthy to be the standard bearer of the democratic party is a distinction for which I never can sufficiently express my gratitude nor can I adequately express it to my friends elsewhere in the country who are also generous enough to think me worthy of that honor."

Smith Is Able Fitted.
"This, however, gives me more than a sense of gratification. It gives me an added sense of responsibility to my party."

"The democratic party needs one thing and only one thing to assure it success next fall. That one thing is unity. We must present a united and unbroken front. It is not enough that there be no repetition in Houston of what happened in Madison Square Garden. There should be no thought or suggestion of it. There should be no dissension that can be avoided."

"I believe that every democrat should subordinate himself to this higher call for party unity."

"It has become increasingly evident that the great majority of the democratic party in almost every section of the country are ready and want to align themselves behind the leadership of Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York."

"Governor Smith is in every way fitted by experience, character and ability to assume that leadership."

Justifies Faith in Democracy.
"He has proved himself a fearless and efficient administrator of the greatest state in the union. His record is a guarantee that with him as president."

ident honesty in government would take the place of corruption in government and that the natural resources of the country would be protected. He believes in equality for every class of our people. The welfare of humanity is the note he would strike. The financial and industrial center of the nation has shown its faith in him and prosperity and good times have nothing to fear at his hands. He is the exponent of those principles of self-government, self rule and ordered liberty in which I believe."

"He justifies the people's faith in democracy. The masses sense that here is an authentic voice but not of the democratic party but of the democracy of the nation too."

Will Vote for Smith.
"There are other great democrats equipped for the presidency, but Governor Smith embodies far and away the best chance to win."

"Whatever contributes to democratic victory, I think it is my duty to do my part and I do it gladly."

"I will therefore release the Maryland delegation from the instructions which the state convention was generous enough to give in my behalf, and when the delegation meets I will suggest that they cast Maryland's vote at the democratic convention for Governor Smith of New York."

(Signed)
"ALBERT C. RITCHIE,
Governor of Maryland."

REED MANAGER IS NOT SURPRISED.

Houston, Texas, June 18.—(AP)—The announcement by Governor Albert C. Ritchie, if Maryland, of his withdrawal as a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination was not unexpected in the camp of Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, Ed S. Villmore, treasurer of Reed-for-President organization, said here tonight.

"Governor Ritchie's action is of his own doing and does not surprise us in the least," Villmore said. "The Reed forces expected Maryland's 16 votes to go to Smith after the first preliminary ballot. Governor Ritchie's action does not complicate our situation in the least; in fact it clarifies the situation."

Senator Reed is expected to arrive here Friday.

front pages and to advertise us in an unfavorable light. Women were embarrassed by being challenged. It was not fair, but on the other hand, gross discrimination."

"Too Much Liquor."
"The reason for the controversy was too much liquor," Mr. Rowden retorted. "Mr. Barrett knows this and he also knows that added to the rumor that the registration lists were opened to certain parties that there also are rumors that at least 100 persons, who never have lived in the fifth ward, were voted in the primary."

"Neither our committee nor any official of the committee has done anything to hide and nothing for which we are ashamed or for which we wish to apologize," Mr. Wall declared. "We accepted the registration list which was made up as correct, and under the law any person listed, whose vote was not challenged, had a right to vote in the election. When voters were challenged because of alleged non-payment of taxes, we did not permit the men to cast their ballots if they had not paid their taxes. We did not permit individuals to have lists and will not in the future."

Mr. Laney reiterated what Mr. Wall said and declared the committee had nothing to fear from any kind of an investigation.

An effort on the part of Alderman William B. Hartsfield, of the third ward, to ask the city democratic executive committee to investigate the complaints failed by a vote of 13 to 10, and the original paper, adopted with an amendment providing for extension of the probe into other wards.

Council also passed a resolution requesting the committee to refrain from allowing access to the lists to any individuals in the runner primary to be held Wednesday.

AIRPLANES FLY OVER NOBILE'S ICY REFUGE

was the first of the four big seaplanes en route to Spitzbergen to reach her northern base.

Fine weather was in evidence as the big machine settled in the harbor. Her arrival and the news that at least two others of large cargo and passenger capacity were en route, raised hopes of watchers here who have been trying to get into direct touch with General Umberto Nobile and other survivors of the dirigible Italia.

It was a bit uncertain as to whether Roald Amundsen, who is flying toward these islands in a French seaplane, would come to Kings Bay. He had intended to make his base at Edvent Bay, about 60 miles from Kings Bay, and to devote his efforts largely to an attempt to discover traces of the seven men who were carried away with the bag of the Italia after the Gondola containing General Nobile had been torn loose by contact with the ice. No direct word of these seven has been had since the crash on May 25.

The third plane expected here shortly is a Swedish machine, the "Upland," Dr. Finn Malmgren, a citizen of Sweden, is one of the three men who started to walk from the wrecked Gondola toward North Gate. It is thought that "Upland" will make special efforts to get trace of that party.

The fourth big seaplane is the Finnish boat "The Turk". She put out from Tromsø today, but had to return because of being overloaded.

TAX ZONE TO ELIMINATE 'BOTTLE NECK' IS VOTED

in value at the intersections, according to their contentions.

Urges Extension of Zone.
Mr. Slaton and others who appeared to oppose the improvement under plan asked that the taxing zone be extended from Ellis to Ponce de Leon, holding that such a program would lessen the burden on a few and more equitably distribute it to those who will be benefited. They contended that funds for the improvement should be taken from the common treasury, since the "project is designed to benefit all the taxpayers."

"Chicago last year widened and repaved $23,000,000 worth of streets located in the central business districts and established taxing zones for every one of them," Mr. York said. "If we wait for the city treasury to pay for such improvements as this, we will never get them. Atlanta is a growing city. It is increasing in population and is progressing faster than the city government can meet the demands for improvements made on it. I hope council will approve the taxing zone paper before it. We followed the advice of the city attorney in establishing the limits and in making assessments. If certain properties are damaged, restitution should be made after the enhancement has been duly credited."

Work on the improvement is expected to proceed just as soon as legal technicalities can be complied with, and predictions were that it will be finished within 90 days.

The plan provides for the widening of Peachtree street between Baker and Ivy 20 feet on the east side. Property owners on the west side will be assessed to pay for 10 feet of the land which will be taken from the east side, and the taxing zone has been extended from Baker to Linden in an effort to raise funds with which to pay for damages which will be done to certain tracts of land because of the peculiar shapes of lots running towards the apex of the triangle formed by the intersection of Peachtree and Ivy streets.

When the improvement is completed Peachtree street will be an 80-foot boulevard from the intersection of Forsyth street to Ponce de Leon avenue.

Ask for WocoPep

KING OF MOTOR FUEL

and SEE that you get it

THOUSANDS of Georgia motorists have discovered the amazing difference between WocoPep Motor Fuel and gasolines. But none of them could tell the difference by just looking at it in the pump. THEY CAN NOW. All WocoPep is RED. We had to give it this distinctive color in order to protect our friends and dealers from cheap substitutes.

It's RED

"For Your Protection"

You can't make any mistake if you watch the color. And you'll certainly make no mistake by filling your tank with this "King of Motor Fuel." It takes you uphill in high, peeps up your motor without knocks and less carbon, gives you greater mileage per fill—in fact WocoPep, the ORIGINAL, benzol-blend Motor Fuel begins where ordinary gasolines end.

Tiolene

100% Pure Pennsylvania MOTOR OIL

While you are giving your motor a WocoPep treat—make it a real one by adding TIOLENE, the 100% Super Pennsylvania Motor Oil. Tiolene is made from Cabin Creek Crude, the highest grade crude found on this continent.

GERMANY HONORS CREW OF BREMEN

Bremen, Germany, June 18.—(AP)—Germany's tribute to the crew of the Junker plane Bremen, first to cross the Atlantic from east-to-west, began today when Captain Hermann Koehl, Baron von Huenefeld and their Irish companion, Major James E. Fitzmaurice, arrived from the United States. Striking sirens, waving flags and cheering crowds greeted the airmen. They were presented with medals and informed in no uncertain terms that Germany was proud of them. Thirty planes circled overhead throughout the welcome, headed by the Junker crack air giant. "The Hermann Koehl," and hands played "Deutschland Uber Alles." The welcome, delayed by the prolonged stay of the fliers in America, started when their steamer entered Bremerhaven Roads. Local officials and relatives of Captain Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld boarded the vessel and gave them their first greetings and first German medals. The trio were wearing the American flying medals presented to them by President Coolidge. The welcome grew in volume and Captain Koehl, deeply moved, thanked the reception committee, saying he had encountered thousands of former German citizens on the flier's trip and that everywhere he had been commissioned to take their greetings back to the fatherland. At a luncheon aboard the steamer the guests included the captain's sister and proud old parents and the captain's mother and brothers, all of whom had risen at dawn so as to be sure to be on time for the meeting. Major Fitzmaurice spoke feelingly of the Bremen's crew since they teamed up in Ireland.

Presidents' Club Leaders Are Paid Honor by Guests

WILKINSON AND PAXON ARE LAUDED

What was intended to be an "old-fashioned" Presidents' club dinner was turned into a wholehearted testimonial banquet to the two leaders of the organization Monday night when Mel Wilkinson, president, and Colonel Paxon, not to be outdone, had asked several of the members to tell the gathering of the respect and love the club holds for its president. After the dinner had been served in the open court of the Piedmont Driving club, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, one of the invited guests, turned the affair into a joint appreciation of the two men. Mr. Wilkinson and Colonel Paxon, he pointed out, have been friends and co-workers in the interests of Atlanta for many years, and he said that if one was to be praised the other should be included in the tribute. Colonel Paxon was called on next by Mr. Wilkinson, who acted as toastmaster and told the gathering that he had known Paxon since he was a boy and was giving the dinner. Ex-Governor John M. Slaton, who followed Colonel Paxon, took a different view of the situation, however, comparing Mr. Wilkinson and Colonel Paxon to Siamese twins, and therefore necessarily joined both should be included in the tribute of the club members. Other speakers, guests of the club, made short talks telling of the friendship and capabilities of the two leaders of the club, who have been closely linked in business and in social life. John S. Cohen, Jack J. Spaulding, and W. C. Edwards mentioned the efficiency they had shown in world war days and predicted that in any times of emergency people of Atlanta would again turn to them for leadership. Mr. Wilkinson at this point tried to turn the remarks of the speakers to other subjects, but with only a partial success, for James A. Holloman, James R. Nevin and Lee Ashcraft continued along the same line, despite the good-natured protests of the toastmaster. Judge Arthur Powell was the last speaker on the program. He voiced the hope that Mr. Wilkinson and Colonel Paxon would enjoy many more years of success in business and in civic endeavor.

BOY WHO KILLED DAD WITH BAT FREED IN COURT

Lexington, N. C., June 18.—(AP)—Charles Stafford, 24, who yesterday fatally injured his father, Robert F. Stafford, with a baseball bat at their home in Erlanger, was freed in a preliminary hearing today. Recorder H. E. Olive, of the local court, held that the son acted in the belief that his mother was about to be slain by the husband and father. The evidence was that the dead man was holding his wife and threatening her with a knife. Stafford had been held without bail.

DOUGLAS OLIVER REACHES FRANCE

Douglas Oliver, Atlanta Eagle Scout, on his way to Africa with the Martin Johnsons, accompanied by his two comrades, Richard Douglas, of Greensboro, N. C., and David Martin, of Austin, Minn., arrived in Paris Monday. The youthful adventurers were accorded receptions worthy of conquering heroes, Associated Press dispatches said Monday. Ambassador Herriek held a special reception for them in the American embassy and later they visited the monument to Nungesser and Coli. The Scouts visited the plaque commemorating Colonel Lindbergh's flight, and stood in formal salute in honor of their fellow countryman. After luncheon at the quarters of the French marine league, they visited Le Bourget Flying field, where they inspected the trans-Atlantic plane "France" as the special guests of Captain Condoret. "We wouldn't change places with Hoover" one of the boys said after the round of ceremonies. The three are the winners of a national-wide Scout contest to select three Eagle Scouts to accompany Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson on a motion picture expedition to Africa. Douglas Oliver, son of Mrs. W. E. Duncan, was honored before his departure from this city by a parade of 2,000 Scouts and the personal congratulations of the governor and mayor.

STEVE GLASS--Candidate for City Marshal

Defies his opponent to prove that he has made one false statement during this campaign as to his record.

Do you think it right that the head of any city department should be permitted to discharge an employee without due notice and for PERSONAL REASONS ONLY? If so, then what kind of a government would we have if the head of each department happened to be a CZAR. STEVE GLASS served the people faithfully as DEPUTY CITY MARSHAL for EIGHT YEARS, discharged without notice, and now asks to be elected CITY MARSHAL. He is QUALIFIED to fill the office. We leave it to your sense of right and justice and ask your vote and influence for STEVE GLASS, JUNE 20th.

3 FLORIDA BANKS PUT UP SHUTTERS

West Palm Beach, Fla., June 18.—(AP)—Two big banking institutions of West Palm Beach and one at Kelsey City, near here, with resources aggregating $6,000,000 and capital stock of $2,500,000, closed their doors today and tonight were in the hands of the state banking department. The institutions were First American Bank and Trust company, which recently was reorganized following a previous closing, and the Citizens Bank, both of West Palm Beach, and the Kelsey City State bank at Kelsey City, which was affiliated with the First American bank of this city. Officials of the First American bank were reticent to advance a reason for the closing of that institution, but Ernest Amos, state bank controller, at his office in Tallahassee, issued a statement, in which he said:

"Parties who reopened the First American bank under contract, abandoned their agreement because the receivers in the bank at the time of the reopening had depreciated to such an extent that they suffered a loss of about $1,500,000. Following the closing of the First American bank, officials of the Citizens bank, in closing the doors of that institution, issued a statement which declared that 'on account of the demoralized conditions that are certain to be brought about by this action, and the prospect of another run without sufficient notice to us to make necessary financial arrangements to meet such a run, the board feels that it is to the best interest of the depositors that the bank be closed and remain closed until proper arrangements can be made.'"

B. A. Mayfield, president of the Citizens bank, said the institution is solvent in every way and that the action was taken as a protection to the depositors. "They will not lose a cent," he said.

ANTONIO BARCELO VICTIM OF ATTACK

San Juan, Porto Rico, June 18.—(AP)—Antonio Barcelo, president of the Porto Rican senate, was stabbed and possibly seriously wounded by Jose Matos, native Porto Rican, in course of a celebration in his honor here today.

Senor Barcelo tonight was in a hospital undergoing treatment for his wound, which, caused by a freshly sharpened carpenter's chisel, may have serious consequences. Matos, himself shot in the scuffle which followed his deed, was lodged in a prison, heavily guarded to protect him from an outraged populace.

Barcelo, less than two weeks ago, received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Columbia university, and the celebration today was in honor of his return to this city. A huge crowd met him at the docks and escorted him to the plaza where, on a balcony overlooking the promenade, he addressed them.

It was while he was speaking that Matos edged through the crowd, pushed his way into the low balcony and wielded his chisel. The crowd apparently did not comprehend what had happened. There was a shot from somewhere, though whether from a citizen or one of numerous policemen about is not known, and Matos was seen to fall writhing in pain to the street level. Police took charge of him, rushing him to the city prison before the crowd, by this time aroused, could do him harm. Here extra precautions had been taken late today to prevent storming by a gathering which had remained outside the jail all afternoon.

'BIG TOP' PRIMA DONNA DIES IN MIAMI, FLA.

Miami, Fla., June 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Bessie Kruse, 42, nationally famous a few years ago as the "Prima Donna of the Big Tops," died in a hospital here today penniless and virtually alone.

Her brilliant career in the show world was broken seven years ago during a circus parade in Portland, Oregon, when a horse fell with her, crushing an arm so badly that amputation was necessary. Up to that time she had toured with the big show and had been featured by Keith and Pantages vaudeville circuits.

But the theatrical booking agents had no contracts for one-armed singers. With the loss of her little savings Mrs. Kruse came to Miami, where she lived unknown even to most of her neighbors and gradually forgotten by the friends of her popular days. The completeness of her isolation was demonstrated when she first fell victim to systemic poisoning a month ago. Mrs. Kruse had relatives in Iowa but they also had suffered financial reverses and were unable to assist her.

DR. E. A. HARRIS DIES SUDDENLY AT SANDERSVILLE

Sandersville, Ga., June 18.—(AP)—Dr. Eugene A. Harris, 54, Washington county health officer, died suddenly at his home here early tonight following a heart attack. He had assumed the post only two weeks ago.

At one time Dr. Harris served as city physician here and he was also county physician a number of years ago. He was one of the most prominent physicians in this section of the state.

REV. W. B. CLARKE MAY BE AWARDED HIGH CHURCH POST

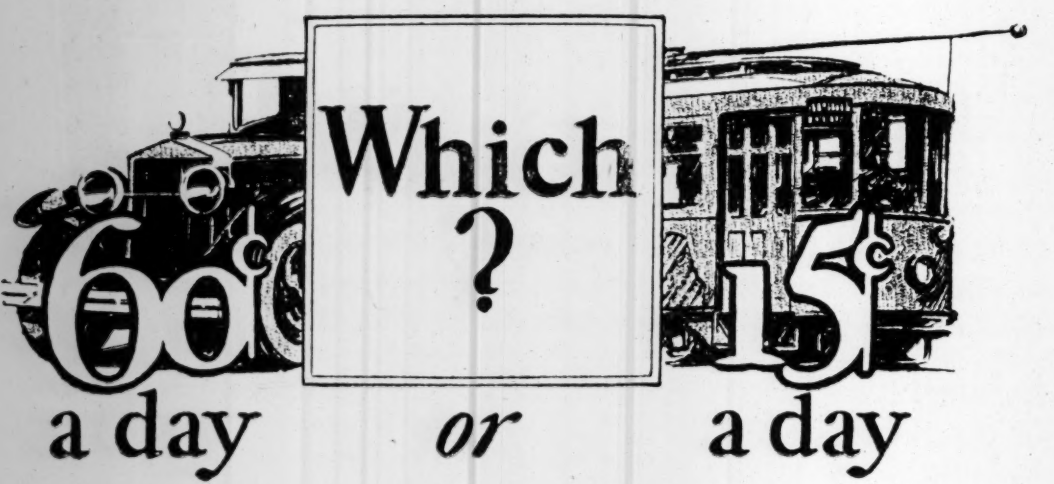

Rev. W. B. L. Clarke, D. D., pastor of Allen Temple A. M. E. church, is being prominently considered to head the church extension department of the A. M. E. church, Washington, D. C., to succeed the late Dr. S. J. Johnson, who died recently of influenza. Dr. Clarke is well known in his denomination. He served at the last general conference as secretary of the Episcopal committee.

June 21st

the World will have a new and finer motor car

NASH
New "400" Series

The average Atlanta motor-car owner lives three miles from Five Points. When he drives to town, that's six miles, round trip. The average cost is 10 cents a mile, based on statistics quoted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The street car fare is 7 1/2 cents each way. Do your own mathematics.

But forget the savings angle for a moment. When you drive the car down-town because you "need it for business", do you actually use it for business? Or, does it just stand there, parked all day?

When you take the motor, the whole family is denied the use of the car for pleasure riding. And the car is serving nobody, just holding down curb-space that's too crowded already.

If you take the auto on the theory it saves you time, gets you there quicker--try the experiment of timing yourself from breakfast table to desk, one week by motor, one week by street car.

You'll find parking takes more time than you save. You'll find that you get to town more comfortably, with less strain, by street car. You'll find, in short, that the street car is by far the more satisfactory of the two--

VICTIM OF CRASH STILL NEAR DEATH AT MILLEDGEVILLE

Milledgeville, Ga., June 18.—(AP)—Clinton Ivey, Baldwin county road employee, who suffered a fractured skull last Thursday night when his automobile collided with another, remained unconscious today and little hope is held for his recovery.

Several other persons were in the Ivey automobile but were uninjured except for bruises. The accident occurred two miles from here.

CASHIER OF BANK COMMITTS SUICIDE AT BROOKLET HOME

Brooklet, Ga., June 18.—(AP)—A. W. Coleman, 28, cashier of the Bank of Brooklet, committed suicide this afternoon. Coleman went to his home for dinner, and without warning secured a pistol and shot himself through the mouth. His wife and baby were at home when the tragedy occurred.

No explanation was made by Coleman, although he lived nearly an hour after the shooting.

His wife could assign no reason for the suicide. Besides his wife, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. John Coleman.

MERCHANDISE STOLEN FROM WHOLESALE FIRM

Merchandise valued at more than $150 was stolen Sunday night from the Perryman-Green company, wholesale ready-to-wear clothing, of 82 Central avenue, by thieves who forced open a rear door of the establishment. It was discovered shortly after midnight by Patrolman Luke Ralledge. A check-up disclosed 35 sweaters and two pairs of gloves missing.

Also entering through the rear door, thieves entered the Adams Printing company, at 25 Warren street, Sunday night and ransacked two safes containing papers, but failed to open a third which held a small amount of cash.

LOCAL ROTARIANS WILL MEET TODAY

Members of the Atlanta Rotary club will hold their weekly meeting at 12:30 o'clock today in the Capital City club. The program for the luncheon has not been announced.

BE FASHIONABLE; OWN A COASTER

Boys and girls, be fashionable. Own a coaster wagon. These fine June days call for a swift coaster to have fun in the race downhill.

The Constitution offers you free of all charge the finest, fastest and snappiest coaster wagon on the market. "The Constitution Express" has heavy rubber tires, roller bearings throughout, heavy steel supports and an attractive finish. It's built to live through hard usage.

Just ask any boy or girl who owns one how easy they are to win. All you have to do is to secure three new six-months subscriptions to The Daily and Sunday Constitution. Friends, neighbors, relatives will be glad to help you. Many youngsters have secured their subscriptions in from one to three hours.

In this issue is a big display ad giving full details of the offer. Turn to it now. Then get busy!

ARMY FIELD SECRETARY BACK FROM TOUR TODAY

Colonel Walter Peacock, field secretary of the Salvation Army for the 15 southern states, will return to Atlanta Tuesday from a tour of inspection of the Carolina, Virginia and Maryland divisions, featured by dedication of a new building at Frederick, Md., built by citizens of Frederick to facilitate Salvation Army work there.

ACCOUNTANTS MEET AT SAVANNAH SATURDAY

Savannah, Ga., June 18.—(AP)—The state convention of the Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants will be held in Savannah on June 23.

It has been announced. Headquarters will be at the Hotel de Soto. The session will open at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, and will adjourn early in the afternoon, it is stated. The Savannah chapter will be hosts at an afternoon party at Tybee and at the banquet at night. Approximately 70 delegates are expected to attend, coming principally from Atlanta, Augusta and Macon.

18 Carloads . . . General Electric Refrigerators . . since May first!

There must be a reason!

Here's what one General
Electric Refrigerator
owner says:

Georgia Power Company,
75 Marietta St., Atlanta.
Gentlemen:

Several weeks ago I purchased from you an R-52 General Electric Refrigerator, and I just want to take this opportunity to tell you how very much I am pleased with it.

The G. E. is all that you claimed for it... exceedingly quiet in operation, economical to run, giving the most perfect of refrigeration. Now I am able to buy foods in larger quantities, and milk keeps sweet for days at a time. It is indeed a pleasure to know that you can go away from home for a week-end with never a worry but that your foods will be properly kept and preserved.

My General Electric Refrigerator is satisfactory in every respect, and nothing could make me go back to the old style refrigeration.

Yours very truly,
[Signed] MRS. R. H. ROBINSON
1291 Emory Road

SINCE the beginning of our General Electric Refrigerator campaign on May first this Company has sold more than 18 solid carloads of this twentieth-century electrical servant... this new-day method of domestic refrigeration.

Surely, there must be a reason for such acceptance on the part of our customers!

... June 30th... only a few days away... is your last chance to get your General Electric Refrigerator on terms of only $10 down, balance in thirty months

WITH a General Electric Refrigerator in your home your refrigeration problem is settled. But, more than the convenience of it, is the fact that foods are perfectly and properly preserved... in a constant, scientific temperature.

Chilled salads and frozen desserts can be quickly and easily made in the General Electric.

Old dishes take on new relish, left-overs come back to the table in unsuspected, delightful surprises.

Take advantage of our special easy payment plan. Buy your General Electric Refrigerator... now. Buy before these unusual terms are withdrawn.

M'RAE VOTES BONDS FOR SCHOOL DISTRICT

McRae, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—The McRae school district today voted to issue $25,000 in bonds for the purpose of either purchasing or building school buildings sufficient to care for the school system. The election was carried by a very large vote, there being only 20 votes in the entire district registered against the bonds.

For the past several years the school system of this district has been housed in the buildings of the South Georgia college, which was closed by order of the annual conference which met in Valdosta in November last year. The closing of the college made it necessary that steps be taken looking toward the securing of proper buildings for the schools.

It is now within the power of the board of trustees of the schools to either buy the buildings of the South Georgia college and remodel them or to build entirely new buildings sufficient to meet their needs.

American Is Received.

Paris, June 18.—(P.)—President Doumergue received Mrs. Charles Augustine Robinson, of New York, delegate of the American National War Mothers' association, in special audience today. She presented the French president with a flag from the American war mothers to their French sister-warriors.

BULLARD QUALIFIES FOR STATE PRIMARY

B. M. Bullard, candidate for the office of comptroller general of Georgia, Monday paid his entrance fee and qualified for the state primary, to be held on September 12.

Mr. Bullard issued the following statement relative to his candidacy: "I announce myself a candidate for the office of comptroller general of Georgia, subject to a state-wide primary election to be held September 12."

I have been influenced to enter the race by a desire to serve the people inasmuch as the tax burden, I am in favor of all of our people paying their just, fair and equal amount of taxes according to their wealth.

B. M. BULLARD.

whether it be visible or invisible property, I am opposed to the method of continuing raising assessments on property in order to collect more taxes without considering whether the property has actually increased or declined in value.

The United States farm census shows that from 1920 to 1922 there were 18,637 farms abandoned in Georgia. Every citizen is familiar with the great slump in farm land values during this period, and also the great disaster that confronted the farmer, merchant, banker and others in our country and small towns, yet in the face of all these conditions the 1922 assessments on farm lands in Georgia for taxes were increased by $3,522,288.

The invisible wealth which is and has been almost entirely escaping taxation, is believed to be in the aggregate, far in excess of the value of all the visible property, and it is my opinion that if taxes were paid on this property share and share alike with the visible property, the occupation and some of the objectionable special taxes could be dispensed with entirely, and the taxes on farms, homes, merchants, mines, mills and other visible property could be reduced possibly one-half, and have plenty of revenue to support our schools, colleges and other state institutions and state expenses.

If the present law is not strong enough to enable me to search out the invisible or hidden property, I shall ask the legislature to enact a law that will empower me to make such investigations as will reveal the owners of this property and enable me to have the same assessed and placed on the tax books at its fair and reasonable value.

I am a native Georgian, 51 years of age, was born and reared on a farm in Cobb county. My father was the late William M. Bullard, of Cobb county, and later a merchant of Bremen, Ga. My grandfather was Robert Lee Bullard, of Cobb county. My maternal grandfather was John W. Moon, originally of Columbia and Walton counties and later of Cobb county. I am a lineal descendant of Captain Benjamin Bullard, who died while defending Augusta, Ga., during the revolutionary war. Some of them never returned from the battle field, others returned maimed for life.

My opponent, Mr. William A. Wright, has held this office for half a century. I believe in progress and development, and if elected shall not antagonize any business or interest, and will carry out the tax policy outlined to the best of my ability.

SMITH WITHDRAWS FROM 11TH DISTRICT TILT FOR CONGRESS

Waycross, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Seward M. Smith, of Homerville, today withdrew as a candidate for congress from the eleventh district.

In his statement of withdrawal Mr. Smith said: "Owing to the fact that the highway board of Georgia is engaged in important litigation, affecting additional mileage and involving questions of great importance to the people of Georgia, and being their general counsel, treasurer and secretary, I deem it my duty to devote my entire time to the highway board at this time. Therefore it will be impossible for me to make the race for congress from my district at this time. I appreciate the interest my friends have shown me during my prospective campaign."

LABORATORY ISSUES PEACH SPRAY BULLETIN

Fort Valley, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—The following peach bulletin was issued today by the local laboratory:

The Ellertans have now reached the right stage for the final application of spray or dust for the control of the curculio and brownrot, and midges. Georgia peach growers are advised to treat that variety at once with 4 pounds of arsenate of lead and 32-32-204 self-boiled lime-sulphur, or 5-15-15 dust. A special effort should be made to thoroughly cover every peach on the trees at this time, as it is desirable to have a residue on them that will remain until harvest. Georgia Belles should have received the final treatment last week, and Hilgys week before last.

REAR ADMIRAL RIXEY TO GET MILITARY BURIAL

Washington, June 18.—(P.)—Rear Admiral Presley Marion Rixey, retired, who served as the physician of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, will be buried tomorrow with full military honors at the Arlington national cemetery.

Funeral services will be held at St. John's Episcopal church.

PHI BETA KAPPA DAY OBSERVED AT GEORGIA

Athens, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Exercises of undergraduates and the annual oration and initiation of the Phi Beta Kappa society were the outstanding events of today's program for the University of Georgia commencement.

Exercises of the undergraduates were held in the chapel Monday morning and the Phi Beta Kappa society exercises were held tonight when the annual oration was delivered by Dr. Clark S. Northup, of Cornell, distinguished American scholar, and professor of English at that institution.

Seventeen seniors were initiated members of Phi Beta Kappa Monday at the library. They are: Dorothy L. Balk, A. B., Augusta; Annie Lane Cartledge, A. B., Athens; Joseph P. Cumming, A. B., Griffin; Nora P. Fortson, A. B., Athens; Wingfield Fowler, A. B., Athens; A. M. Gignilliat, A. B., Pineola; Thomas J. Hamilton, Jr., A. B., Augusta; Ben H. Hardy, Jr., A. B., Barnesville; Joseph E. Heyman, A. B., Atlanta; Ivy M. Hixon, A. B., Augusta; A. J. Matthews, A. B., Columbus; Sam Miller, A. B., Valdosta; Arthur Park McGinty, B. S., Atlanta; Robert L. Patterson, A. B., Athens; G. A. Race, A. B., De Kalb; H. Luke Stancil, A. B., Tate; Katsine Whitehead, B. S., Atlanta.

The Atlanta chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Georgia was the first chapter of that famous scholarship fraternity organized in Georgia and one of the only two in the state. The other chapter is at Agnes Scott college, Decatur. Dr. J. H. T. McPherson is president of the society; Professor W. O. Bynum, secretary, and Dr. R. P. Stephens, treasurer.

Alumni day will occupy the center of the stage of the commencement proceedings Tuesday. Representatives of 11 classes will attend the alumni day exercises.

According to announcement by Thomas S. Gray, alumni secretary, the class reunions this year promise to be attended by large numbers and Alumni day will be one of the most enthusiastic similar events held in many years at the university.

The list of speakers for the undergraduate exercises Monday follows: Bowdon State Normal and Industrial college, Mica Buvena Hooks, Bowdon, Ga.; Georgia State Woman's college, Miss Lorine Tittle, Nashville, Ga.; State College of agriculture, Hoke S. Wofford, Atlanta; Georgia State Teachers' college, Miss Clifford Rigdon, Musella, Ga.; Georgia School of Technology, H. R. Pundt; North Georgia Agricultural college, Juan M. Jarrard, Natal, Ga.; Law department, Martin Edward Kilpatrick, Athens; Franklin college, Arthur Park McGinty, Atlanta.

CORDELE AIRPORT NOT YET APPROVED AS MAIL TERMINAL

Cordele, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—In connection with the formal opening of Cordele's airport Wednesday, announcement was made today that no plans have yet been made or approved by the postoffice department for the delivery to this city of air mail. This was learned from C. G. Goodloe, superintendent of railway mail service at Atlanta, who revealed that the assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail service had not authorized a special air mail delivery to the local airport.

WHITE MAN CHARGED WITH NEGRO'S DEATH

Carnesville, Ga., June 18.—Lee Fowler, a white man living in the Red Hill community of Franklin county, is held in jail here under a coroner's warrant charging him with the murder of Bob Ayers, a negro. It is charged that Ayers was at Fowler's home, where both were drinking and Fowler knocked Ayers unconscious and then locked the house and set fire to it. Sheriff Moss arrested Fowler before the embers had cooled sufficiently to search the ruins of the house, but after cooling and searching he found the torso and head of a human body which was identified as that of Bob Ayers.

AMERICAN GIRL IS FIRST TO FLY OCEAN

ment. Not in years had the vicinity been so awakened.

Boatmen rowing out to the plane saw first Miss Earhart, bobbed hair swathed in colored bandana and face wreathed in a tired, happy smile. They stretched their hands up from their skirts to the cabin of the plane and grasped her hand congratulating her. She thanked them simply, one of them said upon returning, adding: "I'm the proudest woman in the world."

Stultz and Gordon were then seen and after some conversation with the boatmen Stultz put out with one of them for land where he procured fresh fuel supplies. Gordon and Miss Earhart waited only to sleep, and after a while, they too were rowed from their plane into Burry Port.

When Miss Earhart stepped ashore she was surrounded by a cheering crowd of Welsh townsmen and their wives and children, all eager to express their welcome.

Face Showed Weariness.

Her escorts knew how tired she was—her face told only too well what she had been through—and to save her from the affections of the mob of British folk they rushed her into the office of a nearby colliery. But not before one little girl had pushed her way through the crowd and asked the Boston girl if she would accept a little black kitten as her mascot.

Later she, Stultz and Gordon motored to a hotel at Burry Port where they went to their rooms and retired. At 10:30 tonight the hotel said the two men had left calls for Stultz in the morning, with the call for Miss Earhart set a little later.

All Needed Sleep.

The plan to stay in Burry Port tonight and sleep off the fatigue of their long flight from Trepassy Bay was taken after a former decision to fly on to Southampton had been abandoned. The trio were just too tired for the ordeal of further flying. They should set out tomorrow at about 10 o'clock for that city.

At the hotel today Burry Port's police had to take the most elaborate precautions to prevent harm to Miss Earhart from her too ardent Welsh admirers. She was the darling of them all, this fair-haired willowy Boston girl with the face and demeanor of a Lindbergh.

The greater part of the trip across the Atlantic it was well nigh impossible to see anything at all on account of the heavy cloudbanks and the driving rain, Stultz said in describing the flight. They kept in touch with the outside world by means of the radio and the occasional greetings from passing ships.

"We were quite cheerful," he added, "our only anxiety was that our fuel would not last. It was beginning to run low when finally we sighted land."

Missed Direction.

The three were not particularly disappointed when they discovered that they had landed on the Welsh coast instead of at Valencia island, Ireland, or Southampton. Stultz remarked he had discounted the force of the strong northerly winds and let them blow the plane about too much.

Tonight a flood of congratulatory telegrams and cablegrams from all over Europe and America was pouring into the telegraph offices here. During the early afternoon they were sent out by cycle messenger to the docks and from there by boat to the plane. Tonight the task was simpler, since the hotel where they all slept was nearer.

One of the most cordial of the congratulatory messages was from the Air League of the British Empire, stating, simply: "Heartiest congratulations on your magnificent achievement."

Burry Port and this vicinity is one of the most remote sections of Wales. For miles around the estuary, where the plane alighted there is little but marsh. The town itself, aside from its fishing interests, thrives principally as a port for shipping the coal and copper which comes from the mines which are everywhere about.

Unemployed miners comprise the greater part of the population. Late tonight the Friendship had been refueled and taxied into the friendly waters of Burry Port harbor. A guard had been set about it to protect it from the curious.

Gifts and Honors.

AWAIT 'LINDY' GIRL.

Southampton, England, June 18.—(AP)—Gifts and honors await Miss Amelia Earhart and her companions on the plane Friendship. They will receive the first of these tomorrow when they land at this city. Others will come to them in London and in France.

Miss Earhart's wealthy patroness, Mrs. Frederick Guest, has a large number of things dear to the feminine heart waiting for the intrepid Boston woman. There is a traveling case, furnished with fittings in gold and mother of pearl. There are Parisian gowns and shoes and finery of all kinds to replace Miss Earhart's aviation costume in readiness for the busy day ahead.

Elaborate plans have been made for the reception here tomorrow noon. A convoy of planes will meet the Friendship near the Isle of Wight and at the marine port the lady maverick of Southampton, Mrs. L. M. Welch, will welcome Miss Earhart, together with Mrs. Guest and John M. Savage, American consul.

After the reception and a luncheon, the party will leave for London, traveling by motor. In the capital the heroine of the Atlantic will meet the king and queen and other celebrities of the realm. Capt. Guest and Mrs. Guest will be her hosts while she is in London.

She will be entertained by Lady Astor, famous American noblewoman; by Lady Heath, noted English aviatrix, and others.

The program calls for a dash to the continent and present plans are that Miss Earhart will sail from Europe June 27 on the Ile de France. This will bring her to New York on July 4, a date which is held especially fitting for the end of the big adventure.

WOMEN PROUD OF GIRL'S FEAT.

New York, June 18.—(AP)—New York women boasted a common topic of enthusiasm today: Amelia Earhart's trans-Atlantic flight. Rivals, stay-at-home wives, social and professional lights alike spoke their pride in the American social worker's feat.

Thea Rasche, German aviatrix, who expects to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight of her own soon, was one of the first to express her appreciation. "Nobody knows better than I what a wonderful thing she has done," said Miss Rasche. "And I am happier than I can tell that she has made it."

Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, social leader and wife of the publisher, said: "I am delighted that this splendid type of American girl has succeeded in her determination to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic. She has proved the American girl to be possessed of both courage and enterprise. Her spirit did not flag during the trying days of postponement and her courage has won for her all the admiration of her countrywomen."

Mrs. Clarence Chamberlin, wife of the long distance flyer, was enthusiastic, too. "Splendid," she said. "I cannot express my appreciation of her courage and my relief to know that she is safe. When I flew from Key West to Havana the flight was so smooth that it was nothing. But to face storms requires real courage, and anyone who tries it must have real bravery."

COOLIDGE SENDS HIS CONGRATULATIONS.

Washington, June 18.—(United News.)—President Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg and Porter Adams, president of the National Aeronautic association, cabled congratulations today to Miss Amelia Earhart and her companions on their successful trans-Atlantic flight.

The messages from the president and Secretary Kellogg were sent to the American embassy in London to be delivered to the fliers.

Mr. Coolidge's cable to Miss Earhart said: "I wish to express to you, the first woman successfully to span the north Atlantic by air, the great admiration of myself and the people of the United States for your splendid flight."

"Our pride in this accomplishment of our countrywoman is equalled only by our joy over her safe arrival. The courageous collaboration of the copilot, Mr. Wilmer Stultz, and Mr. Gordon likewise merit our cordial congratulations."

Kellogg's message said: "I rejoice in your successful flight across the north Atlantic and congratulate you most heartily on your magnificent achievement. Extend my greetings to Co-Pilot Stultz and to Gordon for their share in this brave exploit."

Porter Adams sent the following telegram to Miss Earhart, who is vice president of the Boston chapter of the N. A. A.: "The National Aeronautic association congratulates you and your companions on your splendid flight, which by its careful preparation and brilliant execution will prove of real value to the advancement of aviation."

MISS EARHART SAYS WAS ONLY PASSENGER

the proper instruments for such a flight.

She said the pilots ate many sandwiches and chocolate bars on the trip and they all enjoyed the coffee carried in the plane.

"I ate only two oranges and six malted milk tablets," she said.

She said when they first sighted land they did not know where they were and only when a boat reached their plane did she realize they had landed off the coast of Wales.

Miss Earhart was asked if she had attempted to drop any messages to the S. S. America when they sighted that vessel early today.

"No," she laughed. "When we circled that ship I was busy lying on my tummy on the fuselage."

Naturally that aroused interest.

"Well," she explained, "I was trying to take a photograph of the ship."

The cockpit of the Friendship was not cold, she said, because it was heated by the exhaust from the motors, but the cabin was cold, especially when they reached an altitude of 11,000 feet.

"Our landing was made only because of a lack of fuel," she continued. "I believe we had just 25 gallons left. She laughed again and said, "I landed without extra clothing and only a toothbrush for baggage."

The future plans of the trio were not revealed.

"I do not know just what I'll do," Miss Earhart said. "But there are some things certain. I won't go in the movies."

The question of lecturing was not definitely decided, she said.

The fliers said they had no trouble with the Friendship's motors after getting out of the rain which started at the take-off. One motor sputtered at that time but was soon working perfectly again.

Gordon Is Satisfied.

Lon Gordon was asked if he would make another ocean flight in the future.

"No," he said, "I think once is enough."

The men alternated at the controls, Wilmer Stultz taking the Friendship through the most dangerous stretches. Both men apparently were more fatigued than their slim girl companion.

None of them had tried to sleep during the flight, they said.

"She was wonderful," said Stultz, referring to Miss Earhart.

Stultz, who piloted the craft over its dangerous course, said visibility was bad after the first thousand miles, and they did not know their position until they landed here and inquired.

As the Friendship came down, with engines spluttering for lack of gas—there was hardly enough to taxi the plane a mile—it nearly collided with the hull of a ship.

The first thing Stultz asked, after learning his location, was for 50 gallons of gasoline, and he went ashore immediately to arrange for it. Miss Earhart and Gordon remained aboard the Friendship for a considerable time, then went ashore in motorboats.

"We were flying blind since 4:30 a. m. today," said Stultz. "We failed to see Ireland and did not know where we were until we landed. We thought we were in the vicinity of Landend. Otherwise we had no trouble."

"The weather during the entire flight was similar to this—cloudy. After we lost our bearings this morning we came down to 400 feet."

"Miss Earhart stood the test as well as any of us. She was wonderful. I do not think she missed a single incident during the whole journey. Even when we were flying through a blanket of fog she showed no concern. When she sighted the coast and we knew we were safe, she was as joyous as a child."

"We can proceed to Southampton whenever we are ready," he said.

springing from different soil. When McAdoo recently made public a letter to George Fort Milton, of Chattanooga, announcing his retirement from party politics, he was only recognizing the complete disintegration which had taken place in his following which at one time in the 1924 convention had him within 20 votes of a majority; and which kept him in first place on the balloting for days.

Now the party has turned—some section of it enthusiastically and another section sulkily because it can find no satisfactory alternative—toward a significant figure which has risen up, not from the prairies of Bryan but from the sidewalks of New York.

Smith and the late Commissioner represent all of the contrasts the two extremes of cosmopolitan east and agrarian west, which have made the democratic party a hybrid and which has caused it much of its trouble. Only in one point is there an underlying similarity—their deep interest in the fortunes of the underdog, their prime interest in man as against money.

But with this the likeness ends and the party is now headed toward the figure who represents the newer cosmopolitan, urban American just as the republicans, in nominating Hoover, have swung in behind a new type of public man produced by the machine age.

It would seem as if American political life is entering a new period, new issues, new problems, new methods of dealing with them, and new figures will shortly come into control, making political types of the last decade seem as obsolete as long skirts.

The democratic party appears, unless the opposition to Smith proves more successful than most informed persons anticipate, headed into the expert hands of Tammany. Whatever he may be said against Tammany—and there is plenty said—it has prided itself upon being the champion of the wage-earner, favoring the rights of individuals as against the privileges of property.

The republican philosophy has been that if property is plentiful and productive, the individual will automatically benefit.

Secretary Hoover is the product of the modern business world, while Governor Smith is the product of the crowded New York streets.

On the issue of prohibition, one believes that modern industry and the universal use of the automobile which has come with it makes it necessary to eliminate liquor. The other still believes in the right of the common man to have his glass of beer after the day's work if he wants it.

Hoover believes that human progress comes best through highly-developed industrial progress. Smith believes the first end of government is to insure personal liberty.

That, so far as a few broad strokes can paint the picture, seems to be the choice about to be offered to the American people. Both are humanitarians, both are able and courageous. Their different political philosophies are to them only different routes to the same destination.

"I am so happy that the last pimple is gone—"

WITHOUT this handicap, there returns the very natural confidence, joy and cherished pride of possessing a clear skin.

Men and women both justly covet admiration, and you can expect such satisfaction only if you are happy in a clear, unblemished skin.

The sure way to reach this state is through the blood. Red blood cells are Nature's elements for building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, blemishes, and that sallow complexion will disappear.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

BLUE HERON MEMBERS WILL MEET ON JUNE 30

Members of the Blue Heron club, an organization of Georgia sportsmen, will meet at Brunswick June 30 to complete the formation of this club and to adopt plans for erecting a clubhouse, it was announced Monday.

Two hundred Georgia sportsmen, including a number of citizens prominent throughout the state, make up the charter membership of the club.

Construction of a clubhouse and pavilion on Blue Heron Island with extensive landscaping, artesian wells, swimming pool, and other facilities at the island retreat, is planned by the organization. The project also contemplates erection of a causeway connecting Blythe and Blue Heron islands, permitting motor travel between island and mainland.

Officials of the club have announced that the work of preparation will be rushed so as to permit occupancy of the property at earliest possible moment.

At the recent organization meeting in Atlanta, officers were elected and a governing board of 12 members named, together with an executive committee of three Brunswick citizens empowered to act for the club until the final organization meeting.

Officers of the club are as follows: Hal M. Stanley, Atlanta, president; C. B. Conyers, Brunswick; F. E. Shumate, Atlanta, and State Game Commissioner Peter S. Twitty, vice.

HAMMOND SENTENCED TWICE ON SAME DAY

Harold Hammond, convicted murderer of Mrs. Lottie Ingram, will die in the electric chair in the grim little room at Milledgeville on July 6, unless there is some further delay in the execution of the death penalty.

Twice sentenced to death since his conviction, Hammond, without emotion, heard his doom pronounced twice Monday. Judge Virlyn B. Moore at first sentenced the slayer to die on Friday, July 13, and then, learning that this date was past the time limit allowed by law, had Hammond brought back into the courtroom and cut short his allotted span by seven days.

The second sentence was made necessary by an error of Tom Lewis, attorney for Hammond, who in asking that the date be fixed as far off as possible, urged that July 13 be selected as the time of Hammond's death. The law provides, however, that a convicted prisoner must die in not less than 10 days and not more than 20 days after his sentencing.

Asked if he had anything to say before he was sentenced to die, Hammond told Judge Moore that "it don't look like saying anything does any good," and requested the court to hurry up with the sentence as he felt ill and wanted to "go home and lie down." Hammond's wife and little son, Harold Hammond, Jr., were with Hammond in the courtroom, the prisoner greeting both with warmth. The defendant was convicted and sentenced in June, 1927, the supreme court passed on the case and he was resentenced May 18, 1928. Governor Hagaman granted a 30-day respite, which expired last Sunday.

MRS. BLAKE DIES OF BLOW ON HEAD; HUSBAND IS HELD

Mrs. Emma Blake, 35, of 19 Oak Grove avenue, died Monday at Grady hospital as the result of a fractured skull received early Saturday morning and her husband, T. B. Blake, convicted guard, Monday was being held by police in connection with her death.

Blake denies all knowledge of how his wife received her injury, which she suffered at the residence early Sunday morning. Blake admits, according to police, that he was completely intoxicated.

Police reports made by Patrolmen Sexton and Morris say that neighbors were aroused about 4 o'clock Saturday morning by sounds of an altercation in front of the Blake home. The sound of a blow was heard, and rushing from their homes, the neighbors reported that they found Mrs. Blake unconscious in the street and the husband standing nearby with a shotgun, the stock of which was broken.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR OF GEORGIA PLAN TO ATTEND MEETING

Arrangements to have all members of the Georgia Knights Templar organization assemble with their guests in Atlanta on the morning of July 15 to leave en masse for the triennial convocation of the grand encampment, to be held in Detroit, July 16-19, are being formulated, it was announced Monday by E. B. Cohen, chairman of the triennial committee, Grand Commandery of Georgia.

Plans to have a special train carrying Georgia delegates to the national convocation were introduced recently at the state gatherings in Brunswick, Ga. The "Georgia special" is scheduled to leave Atlanta at 9 o'clock on the morning of July 15, arriving in Detroit at 6:30 o'clock the next morning.

ATLANTA'S WOMEN DRIVERS TO FORM NEW SAFETY BODY

Several hundred women of Atlanta, interested in general safety activities, and particularly in safe automobile driving, will gather at the chamber of commerce hall number 2 Wednesday morning for the purpose of organizing a permanent society.

At a previous meeting of the group Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe was elected temporary chairman and Mrs. G. A. Diebert, temporary secretary. At the meeting Wednesday proposed by-laws will be voted upon and permanent officers will be elected from the report of the nominating committee which consists of Mrs. A. E. Marcus, chairman; Mrs. E. W. Buckley, Mrs. C. J. Kamper, Mrs. Raymond B. Nelson and Mrs. S. H. Sewell.

TWENTY GEORGIA RESERVE OFFICERS CALLED TO DUTY

Out of a total of 114 organized reserve officers called to duty by orders issued at headquarters fourth corps area Monday, 20 are from Georgia. Of these, 17 will train at Fort 18. The Georgians called to duty, all McPherson beginning July 1, and 92 at Fort Screven, Ga., starting July 15.

To Fort McPherson, Ga.—James M. Brooks, Loganville; Reid R. Davis, Toconia; Pinckney J. Garrison, Covington; Arthur M. Gignilliat, Pine-ora; Luther M. Heard, Elberton; George F. Klugh, Atlanta; Little W. Lamar, Atlanta; Robert S. Lawrence, Atlanta; Irwin T. McCurley, Elberton; John O. Mealing, Augusta; Asa M. Moseley, Easton; Joseph B. Moore, Gainesville; James R. Moss, West Point; Guy A. Race, Amsterdam; Virgil S. Steele, Eastman; George H. Stone, Athens; Hoke S. Wolford, Atlanta.

To Fort Screven, Ga.—Londie J. Strickland, Waycross; Broadus McAfie, Aragon; Ralph E. Dean, Martin.

The proposed bond issue for Decatur will be discussed at a mass meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the Oakhurst school, on Meade road. Considerable interest is being shown in the coming bond issue and those in charge expect a large crowd at the meeting, where arrangements have been made for registrations. A musical program will be furnished by M. Rich & Bros. company quartet.

G. O. P. 'DRY' PLANK CALLED MISTAKE

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, returning today from Kansas City, where he was a delegate to the republican national convention, said in a formal statement that failure of the convention to adopt his resolution calling for repeal of the 18th amendment is regarded by supporters of his plan as making the republican party a prohibition party.

"If the voting public takes this point of view then the result in November may be most disastrous," said the statement, which described the convention as "dull and colorless," while "the intellectual level was certainly not high."

Dr. Butler said he had received "personal assurances" from many members of the resolutions committee agreeing with his position as indicated in his resolution, but they were "fearful of the political effect of incorporating this declaration in the platform." Dr. Butler said he had been informed eight members of the committee supported his resolution in executive session.

The committee declaration calling for enforcement of the 18th amendment, Dr. Butler said, "was so extraordinary and did so great violence to sound constitutional doctrine and to long-established republican policies and ideals, that it could not be permitted to go without opposition."

For that reason, he said, he appeared before the convention in a vain effort to have his resolution substituted for the enforcement declaration.

Dr. Butler said the coming campaign "is to be fought on two fronts." "There will be one sort of battle," he said, "on the eastern front, where danger will be from the loss of the liberal element of the population, and another sort of battle on the western front, where the problem will be to satisfy the gravely discontented and offended farm population."

ANTI-SALOON HEAD VOICES OPINION.

Lincoln, Neb., June 18.—(AP)—Should Al Smith be nominated as candidate for president by the democratic national convention, the Anti-Saloon league will support Herbert Hoover, republican nominee, according to F. Scott McBride, of Washington, D. C., general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league. He was attending a state meeting of the league here.

Regardless of any dry planks that may be inserted in the democratic platform and any decision of Smith to uphold dry enforcement, his name received as governor of New York and his public utterances against prohibition would be too unfavorable to enforcement to warrant his support by the league, Mr. McBride said.

"Al Smith has fought too long for the saloon and the brewer for him now to accept the alleged advice of Elihu Root that he should pose at the Houston convention as the champion of law enforcement," the superintendent declared. He characterized Smith as a "weak candidate."

SUNDAY ORCHESTRA PLAN BRINGS FIGHT

One of the most perplexing parliamentary tangles and also one of the hottest fights of the year on the floor of council were caused Monday afternoon by an attempt to permit the Atlanta Symphony orchestra to give a Sunday religious concert and charge an admission fee. The involved discussion of the paper was climaxed by its withdrawal.

Offered by Alderman Charles Murphy, of the eleventh ward, and R. E. Gann, of the sixth ward, the paper was ruled out of order by Mayor Pro Tem Claude L. Ashley on the ground that it conflicted with state laws.

Alderman Murphy appealed from the decision of Mayor Pro Tem Ashley, and Alderman Couch, of the fifth ward, took the chair.

When Alderman Murphy asked that the city attorney rule on the matter, Alderman Couch replied that only Alderman Murphy and Alderman Ashley could speak under council rules.

Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, of the third ward, stated that council had the right to appeal to the city attorney at all times, warning council that Couch's ruling would set a precedent that would tend to limit council's knowledge of the facts it was voting on.

Alderman Murphy appealed from Couch's decision, and council overruled Couch. When called upon for a ruling, Assistant City Attorney Courtland S. Winn pointed out that section 1321, which the proposal would amend, referred not to the Sunday motion picture law, but to the election of a chief of the sanitary department. The proponents then withdrew the paper.

COUNCIL APPROVES $56,000 PURCHASE FOR 11TH WARD PARK

In the face of vigorous opposition by Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, of the third ward, city council Monday afternoon passed a resolution which provides $56,000 as the first installment on the purchase of a 30-acre tract for a playground in the eleventh ward.

The total cost of the playground tract will be $265,000.

Hartsfield opposed the purchase of the property on the ground that the city already has enough land, and is spending money that might be devoted to the purchase of Candler aviation field.

RELEASE OF WEAK DAM WILL FLOOD BIG AREA OF LAND

Memphis, June 18.—(AP)—Engineers of the Mississippi river commission here said tonight from 20,000 to 30,000 acres in Greene and Craighead counties, Arkansas, probably will be flooded by water released by a break in the St. Francis river levee near Kennett, Mo. Levees in the two counties were riddled by the 1927 floods, and efforts to hold them would be useless, the engineers said.

BRITISH COMMONS TO ELECT SPEAKER DURING THE WEEK

London, June 18.—(AP)—A new speaker of the British house of commons will be elected this week, for the first time in seven years. The function, following traditional forms, will occupy four days.

Actual election of a successor to Rt. Hon. J. H. Whitley, who has held this position since 1921, and today asked permission to retire, will take place on Wednesday. Captain A. E. Fitzroy, conservative member from Lancashire, and deputy chairman of committees, is a popular choice for the succession and, it is believed, will be chosen.

At the announcement this afternoon by Mr. Whitley of his resignation, Premier Stanley Baldwin expressed regret at the loss to the house of the services of the man who has been in it altogether for 28 years as liberal representative for Halifax, Yorkshire.

Tomorrow the premier will move for the thanks of the house to Mr. Whitley. His action will be supported by Ramsay MacDonald and David Lloyd George, former premiers. He will then move an address to his ministry praying for the signal mark of favor for the late speaker, this in effect recommending Whitley for the pension of £20,000.

Benefit Entertainment.

The members of the Gate City lodge, No. 54, of the Colored Elks of Atlanta, will give an entertainment at 8 o'clock tonight at the colored Old Fellows' roof garden, to benefit the Elks lodge. The evening will be featured by a dance, with music furnished by the Capital City orchestra, according to an announcement Monday night by E. L. Collier.

LEA AND CALDWELL RAILROAD SMOKE FILE AMENDMENT BAN IS PROPOSED

Counsel for plaintiffs in the case of Lea and Caldwell against the Citizens and Southern bank, involving the construction of a contract between plaintiffs and majority stockholders of The Constitution Publishing company, filed an amendment to their petition in the United States court today.

The original petition alleged that plaintiffs had deposited with the trustee the amount required by their contract for the purchase of shares of stock in The Constitution Publishing company and that the trustee had refused to deliver the stock.

Upon the request of the majority stockholders the Citizens and Southern bank filed a bill of interpleader asking that the majority stockholders, as the real parties at interest in the controversy, be made defendants and that the trustee be dismissed from the litigation, and an order was passed by the court, under the bill of interpleader, substituting the majority stockholders as defendants.

An answer was then filed by defendants setting up the allegation that the contract provided that plaintiffs should pay defendants the sum of $1,050,000 as the consideration for said stock, and that plaintiffs, instead of depositing that amount with the trustee within the period fixed by the contract, deposited only $54,350, on which account the trustee had properly rejected the tender and refused to deliver the stock to the plaintiffs.

Plaintiffs filed a demurrer to defendants' answer, which demurrer is assigned for a hearing in the United States court for Saturday, June 23.

The amendment filed to plaintiffs' petition on Monday alleged the willingness of plaintiffs to have the trial judge fix a fair and reasonable price for the stock in controversy provided the defendants would agree to deliver the stock.

Counsel for the defendants, when asked for a statement concerning the litigation, said: "A full and complete answer to plaintiffs' original petition was promptly filed in court, setting up the facts of the controversy, from the standpoint of the defendants, and a complete answer will be promptly prepared and filed by the defendants before the demurrer is heard on next Saturday."

"Plaintiffs permitted their option of purchase to expire without depositing with the trustee the contract price, plaintiffs had agreed to pay, and defendants have no intention of entering into negotiations to sell the stock in question, to plaintiffs or to any else."

"The respective rights of the contracting parties have been fully set up by the pleadings filed in court and the defendants are content to have the matter adjudicated by the court."

BRITISH EARL HIT IN DIVORCE SUIT AS CO-RESPONDENT

London, June 18.—(AP)—The Earl of Errol was figured as co-respondent in a divorce case. Major Cyril Seve Ramsay Nill petitioned for a dissolution of his marriage on the ground of misconduct of his wife with the earl. Justice Hill granted a decree nisi with damages of 3,000 pounds sterling against the nobleman.

BOY IS KILLED, SEVEN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Clearwater, Fla., June 18.—(AP)—A six-year-old boy was killed and seven persons were injured yesterday when two automobiles crashed at a street intersection here.

Murray Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Green, of Clearwater, was killed and his parents and two other children injured in the Green car. Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sawyer, of St. Petersburg, and one child, occupants of the other automobile also were hurt.

18 PLEAD GUILTY IN LIQUOR CASES AT AMERICUS, GA.

Americus, Ga., June 18.—(AP)—Eighteen persons out of a total of 65 charged with violating the prohibition law, pleaded guilty this morning before Judge E. A. Deane, United States court, and were given fines and sentences ranging from $50 to $250 or 60 to 90 days in jail. Fifty other alleged violators of the dry law rounded up last week remain to be tried.

LINDY RECEIVES HONOR OF SCHOOL THAT FLUNKED HIM

Madison, Wis., June 18.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the University of Wisconsin's most famous former student, was honored by his alma mater today when he received the honorary degree of LL. D. The flying colonel matriculated at the university in 1920 and was ordered to "withdraw" two years later for low grades. He was an engineering student at Wisconsin, and left to take aviation that brought him world-wide fame.

The famous flier received his degree amidst the plaudits of 1,500 and 2,500 spectators that crowded into the university stock pavilion after rains had caused the commencement exercises to be moved from the stadium. An equally large number were outside and waited to get a glimpse of the flier.

President Glenn Frank told Lindbergh the degree was presented more for his acts after the transatlantic flight than for the flight itself. Clinging his address, Dr. Frank slipped the purple hood that drapes the scholar's shoulders on the colonel.

The crowd gave the university yell. The hero smiled and bowed. He had received his degree.

International Rotary Opens Week's Sessions At Minneapolis, Minn.

Minneapolis, June 18.—(AP)—Most of the world has sent delegates to the nineteenth annual convention of Rotary International, which opened a week's session today. More than 5,000 delegates already have registered, and President Arthur S. Sapp, of Huntington, Ind., predicted 12,000 registrations before the books are closed.

Fourteen foreign countries are represented by 238 delegates. Clearing of preliminary routine business occupied delegates during the day, with the convention proper scheduled to open tonight when James Hamilton Lewis, former senator of Illinois, will address the Rotarians.

A "Hall of Friendship" has been established in one section of the Municipal auditorium, where the sessions are being held. In this hall Rotarians will have an opportunity to become better acquainted with other members, to dance, and to keep appointments.

GENERAL FOSTER DIES IN FLORIDA

St. Augustine, Fla., June 18.—(AP)—General J. Clifford R. Foster, adjutant general of Florida, president of the Adjutant General's association of the United States, and one of the best known military men in the country, died at his home here today. He was 55 years old.

General Foster became ill after returning here Saturday from an inspection of the national guard encampment at Camp Johnston at Jacksonville. A sudden seizure of heart trouble while he sat in his office here resulted in his death.

He had been adjutant general of Florida for 27 years with the exception of the period from 1917 to 1923. He had been nominated in the democratic primary of June 5, to return to office for another four-year term.

General Foster was born at Savannah, Ga., but most of his life had been spent in Florida, his family for generations past having lived in this state.

It is believed, however, that the progress of the cholera will be stopped within a week or two and that later litters of pigs will not be affected and by fall the most of the disease wiped out.

The paper would go into effect on January 1, 1929. It was referred to the bridge committee for a public hearing on the matter. In the paper

U. S. AND AUSTRIA TO SIGN TREATY

Washington, June 18.—(AP)—The state department announced today that the American minister, Albert H. Washburn, of Vienna, and the Austrian minister for foreign affairs will sign a treaty of friendship, commerce and consular rights between the United States and Austria at noon tomorrow.

The treaty is similar to treaties of friendship, commerce and consular rights signed within the past five years by the United States with Germany, Hungary, Estonia, Salvador, Honduras, Latvia and Norway.

To prove that these troubles can be stopped, often in a few hours, the W. B. Way Co., 158 Westover Arcade, Kansas City, Mo., will mail postpaid a full $1 treatment of Rudolph's Ecodatis for 10c to cover cost of mailing. Use it and if satisfied pay only $1.00; otherwise they take the loss. You risk nothing. Write today.—(adv.)

Frigidaire sales break all records

*Surplus power... rapid ice freezing... beauty and convenience of design... greater value
at low prices... and proven dependability win overwhelming preference for Frigidaire*

A GAIN Frigidaire sales have broken all previous records. In the past three months more have been sold, and more installed than in any previous three months in Frigidaire history. More than ever before the nation is swinging to Frigidaire. For Frigidaire, with all its overwhelming tangible advantages, carries in addition the prestige of twelve years of proven service and twelve years of constant experiment and improvement.

Frigidaire has the surplus power which freezes ice... always

You are going to buy an automatic refrigerator for one hundred different reasons and there are fully one hundred different reasons for your having one. But how much are you taking for granted? It requires surplus power to freeze ice quickly and regularly and it requires the highest mechanical efficiency to freeze ice economically.

In its many years of experience in the perfection of fine mechanical products General Motors has learned the secret and the necessity of surplus power. There is power in Frigidaire for every emergency. Power to freeze a fresh supply of ice cubes for every meal even on the

SYNOPSIS

Old John Pybus, formerly a bookseller in London and later in Winterbourne, is serving as a porter in an inn at Castle Craven when his son Conrad sees him there. He has been estranged from his father since the beginning of the war and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother Probyn that he has seen his father. Probyn's son, Lance Pybus, had believed his grandfather dead, but he looks him up at the Rurven's Head without telling his parents of the meeting. When Lance finishes at Cambridge he takes a room in London, and after gaining his father's reluctant consent and a small allowance he devotes himself to writing. In London Lance meets and is attracted to Olive Gaddan, a maid-servant. Mary Morris, a friend of old Pybus, takes care of a blind brother.

INSTALLMENT XVI. FATHER AND SON.

Probyn looked at his father, and then slowly went to pick up the letter that lay on the desk.

"You said—here—that you had something to tell me."

"Yes—that's so, about Lance."

Probyn's head seemed to give a jerk.

"Lance? But—"

"Exactly. Keeping a secret too long, Probyn, may sometimes come to smell like a secret sin. Perhaps you won't understand that—perhaps you won't. Do you know where Lance is?"

Probyn seemed to draw his breath and hold it.

"No. In the country somewhere. But—what—"

"Well—I'm here to tell you that he is with me."

"At Cheam?"

"No. Castle Craven—living with me. The boy found me out years ago, and then he added in a very gentle voice: 'He's rather a fine lad, Probyn, finer, perhaps, in his way, than either you or I. You have got to take it as it is.'"

Probyn appeared to compel himself to walk to the fire and to stand there with a pretense of warming his hands.

"Don't quite take you. Do you mean that you and the boy—?"

"Three or four years ago, Probyn—if you remember—his face looked hot."

"And after that—"

"Lance turned up one day. He used to drive over; he had found out who I was. I did not know him for my grandson, and he kept his secret for a while. Since then—"

"I see."

"No, you don't see yet, Probyn. It's not quite so easy. You and I have something to forgive each other—if we have any sense left in us. You see, in a way I understood the lad."

Probyn's face seemed to be growing redder. When he spoke his voice had a thickness, as though he had developed a sudden cold in the head. The stoop of his shoulders was awkward.

"Are you the friend in the country?"

"I suppose so."

"For years he has been going down to see you."

"About once a month."

"Suppose you thought—that you were getting back at me through the boy?"

Old Pybus stood up.

"No—as a matter of fact, I didn't. It just happened that way. The boy came to me; he wanted to come. Somehow we talked the same language."

"You backed him against me."

"No. If you see it as I see it, Probyn, it is his right to repeat itself, fathers and sons, fathers and sons. I made rather a mess of being a father."

"You say you have got him with you now?"

"He came to me. I'll tell you why, and just why he is going to be with me for six months."

Probyn remained by the fire, leaning one elbow on the oak shelf. He had a very tired look; his eyes watched the fire. For he was listening to the very human story of his son and his son's book and a woman, and seeing the message beneath, a palimpsest, the mystic inwardness and meaning of it all. For Lance, when life dealt him that first wound, had gone to the old man—his grandfather—had fled to him to be comforted and healed and to have his feet planted once more upon the upward and creative path. The father was aware of a dull sense of humiliation and of failure. The thing twined in him.

"Supposing you were in my place—"

"Suppose I was, Probyn, if a little differently. Neither you nor I appear to have understood our sons. Isn't that common ground? Can't we meet on it? If Lance has children, I don't suppose I shall see them, but you will. Meanwhile—"

He laid a hand on his son's arm.

"I'm a very old man, and you are not so young as you were. We can afford to be a little big. That's all I have to say."

On the night when the venerable was sleeping at Cheam, Lance had drawn the curtains across the window.

Swimming Pool Opening And Activities Featured at Club

That the Atlanta Woman's club is functioning in its usual manner and stands ready to serve the members was evidenced by the opening of the swimming pool Monday morning, with many informal swimming parties christening the occasion. Mrs. Charles Goodman, president of the club, announces a very important number of innovations being introduced under her administration, including the opening of the club every evening, whereby business and professional women may avail themselves of the opportunity to visit the club, take advantage of the reading room and hear radio programs.

Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore is chairman of the house committee and Mrs. W. P. Price-Smith is chairman of the swimming pool and auditorium. The officers of the club serving with Mrs. Goodman are, Mesdames Shepard McDougall, auditor, Victor Krieshaber, second vice president; T. G. Delph, corresponding secretary, and J. A. Carlisle, treasurer. Mrs. Ray S. Addis is club superintendent and arranges dates for dances, parties, plays or any other activities. Refreshments will be served after the swimming parties, and the auditorium is being renovated for the first meeting scheduled for September. Mrs. H. A. Watts is club secretary, and is stationed in the president's office to receive dues and aid members in any way desired. The garden committee, of which Mrs. Fritz Jones is chairman, remains active all summer and the meetings are scheduled for the second and fourth Tuesday mornings at 10:30 o'clock in the palm room.

Albert Bush, a student at the Georgia School of Technology and member of the S. A. E. fraternity, is the lifeguard stationed daily at the blue-green swimming pool to look after accidents. Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, chairman of the house committee, calls a meeting Wednesday morning, June 20, at 9:20 o'clock, the members including Mesdames W. L. Throver, Arthur Hazzard, E. V. Carter, W. R. Price-Smith, Hamilton Douglas and George Ripley.

In being questioned regarding her eagerness in working for the realization of her ideals, generosity in giving time and effort, and frank manner in dealing with situations pertaining to the office of president of the Atlanta Woman's club, Mrs. Goodman stated that the club is the place where every bit of the community life is centered, and that, as she has expended over 20 years of her life in membership and service to this club, she believes that without women's organizations many cultural and civic opportunities for service would be denied Atlanta.

Mrs. Goodman has resided in Atlanta 42 of the 52 years of her life and she has shown unselfish devotion to the city. She was Miss Beatrice Wilson, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Wilson and the late Mr. Wilson, before her marriage to Mr. Goodman. She graduated from Girls' High school in 1897, and qualified as a teacher, serving in such capacity as an instructor in Davis, Marietta and New Street schools. For ten years she was executive secretary of Milton Bradley company, of which her husband is manager, visiting schools and conventions in Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina and Louisiana, with Texas added, her territory a part of the time. For 10 years she attended the great summer school of the south at the University of Tennessee, in Knoxville, under P. P. Clanton, commissioner of education, both as instructor and student. Mrs. Goodman was president of Atlanta Story Telling league, and so efficient did she perform her duties as to the advancement of the league that her work attracted the attention of the national organization, and her photograph appeared on the cover of the magazine accompanied by an article in the number of the organ. She is a life member of the club, of which she is president, and has capably served as chairman of various committees, but the special work accredited to her is that of child welfare, to which she has unselfishly devoted her interest and time. During the period she headed the fifth district child welfare committee Mrs. Goodman put on a campaign in which 10,000 Fulton county babies were weighed during the world war, the work being staged under the council of national defense. She is a life member of the American Red Cross, and during the world war lectured and organized chapters in Fulton county. She organized the weekly story-telling hour at the High Museum of Art. The advancement of education has always been the theme of Mrs. Goodman's constructive life, and on her first trip to Europe, in 1910, she made special visits to the educational centers of the old world. In 1916, when she again traveled extensively in Europe, Mrs. Goodman, in company with Mr. Goodman, by whom she is supported in all of her club activities, visited the Holy Land, Egypt and other places included in a Mediterranean cruise. She is a sister of J. D. Wilson, professor of mathematics at Mercersburg, Pa., and L. A. Wilson, of Atlanta.

The Misses Bryan Are Honor Guests.

Misses Mary and Florence Bryan, who with their parents, Judge and Mrs. Shepherd Bryan, leave Atlanta Tuesday for New York, from whence they sail this week on the steamer Majestic for a European tour, were honor guests at the swimming party given Monday by their aunt, Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, at the Atlanta Woman's club. Tea was served on the terrace overlooking the pool and a group of intimate friends of the honor guests were invited to meet them.

Atlantans Visit At Virginia Beach.

Virginia Beach, Va. June 18.—Selecting Virginia Beach as a pleasant place for a week's sojourn between two important insurance meetings, Milton Dargan, W. R. Prescott and Joseph Raine, of Atlanta, brought their families to spend the past week at the Cavalier hotel. Attending the annual convention of the Southeastern States Underwriters' association at Greenbrier at White Sulphur Springs the week of June 4, Mr. Dargan, Mr. Prescott and Mr. Raine, who are members of the Underwriters' association, met for the reorganization meeting of the Underwriters' association to be held on June 22. A separate organization for the state of Virginia was made necessary by the act passed by the last state legislature, putting the insurance business on a par with the railroad and other transportation industries. Mr. Raine is secretary of the Southeastern States Underwriters' association, which covers all states south of the Mason and Dixon line.

Mr. Dargan, who has been engaged in insurance for nearly forty years, is representative of the Royal Insurance company of Liverpool for thirteen of the southeastern states. He contemplates retiring in a few years to devote his attention to his two hobbies, golf and gardening. Mr. Prescott represents the Hartford Insurance company, covering the same territory. Both Mr. Dargan and Mr. Prescott visited the Princess Anne country three years ago as the guests of R. L. Dobie, of Norfolk, and enjoyed that excellent golf course so much that they decided to visit the new Cavalier hotel, whose grounds adjoin the club, between insurance meetings. Mr. Dargan's daughter, Mrs. Helen Dargan Lowmies, who held the southern women's golf championship for two years in succession, four years ago, has been an interested follower of the championship tourney at the Princess Anne club the past week.

Harwell-Sanders Wedding Plans Create Wide Social Interest

One of the loveliest of the wedding sets for the latter days of June will be that of Miss Anna Lowe Lovejoy Harwell to Marion Dwight Sanders, of Atlanta and Chicago, which will be solemnized at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 30, at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Judge and Mrs. Frank Harwell, on Clairmont avenue, Decatur.

The Rev. Comer McDonald Woodward, of Emory university, will read the marriage service, which will be witnessed by the members of the bride-elect's and the groom-elect's families. Judge Frank Harwell will give his daughter in marriage, and she will be attended by her cousin, Miss Katharine Lovejoy Akin, of Cartersville, who will act as maid of honor.

The two small nieces of the bride-elect, little Miss Ruth Lovejoy Rutland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Rutland, and Little Miss Nancy Harwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harwell, Jr., of Los Angeles, Calif., will be the flower girls. Mr. Sanders has as his best man his cousin, Herbert Willingham, of Harrisonburg, Va.

Following the marriage service an informal reception will be held. Misses Mary and Clyde Lovejoy, of LaGrange, cousins of the bride-to-be, will keep the bride's book.

During the evening Mr. Sanders and his bride will leave for a wedding journey in the east and upon their return will reside in Chicago.

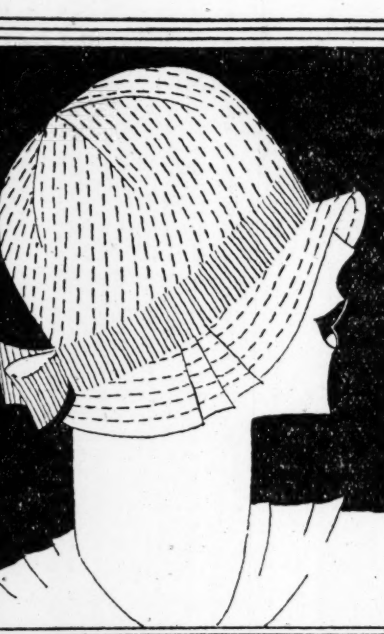

Miss Harwell will return the latter part of this week from Cartersville, where she has been extensively entertained for several weeks as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Paul Francis Akin, and her cousin, Miss Katharine Lovejoy Akin. Miss Akin will return to the city with Miss Harwell and will be her guest until after her marriage.

A number of lovely social courtesies have been planned in compliment to the popular bride-elect, the dates to be announced upon her return to the city.

Guests at the Biltmore hotel who are here to attend the Davison-Warner wedding are Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Warner, of Detroit; Daniel Warner, of Greensboro, N. C.; and Dr. Frank H. Blackman, of Chicago.

Polo Game At Fort McPherson Attracts Society

The polo game Sunday between the Governor's Horse Guards and the McPherson four was a cleverly played eight-chukker affair resulting in a victory for the fort team. Brilliant riding and clever stick work were displayed by both teams and the huge crowd representing fashionable Atlanta society and the army group were enthusiastic spectators. Following the game a beautiful tea was served from a marquee erected on the lawn in front of building 27, with Mrs. David E. Barnett, Mrs. Robert Joerg, Jr., and Mrs. Thomas Mayo as official hostesses. With pennants of blue and yellow in honor of the opposing teams streaming in the background of green of the forest trees, the marquee where the tea was served was a colorful setting for the guests, including the girls in their pastel frocks and the more brilliant coloring of sports attire, the players wearing their team colors, and the officers in their natty uniforms. Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. Harry J. Kelly, Mrs. Sybil E. Faine, Mrs. Ralph E. Powell, Mrs. Roland

Tamar Dean, Miss Lucie Gaines assisted in serving the guests. Mrs. Thomas Mayo, Mrs. Robert Joerg, Jr., and Robert Joerg, III and Wood Joerg motored to Columbus, Ga., Monday to visit friends and relatives for ten days.

—Old Mr. Toad.

"Oh, my goodness gracious!" Old Mr. Toad exclaimed. He did it under his breath, however. Yes, sir, he did it under his breath. He made no sound. Nothing could have induced him to make a sound right then. He is naturally pop-eyed, but he was more pop-eyed than ever. Those pop-eyes were staring at—whom do you think? Mr. Rattlesnake!

Old Mr. Toad wished that he had dug in a little deeper and pulled the hole in after him. Then he noticed that Mr. Rattlesnake was not coming in his direction. He was gliding along very smoothly, as only Mr. Rattlesnake can, and he was headed toward the tree in which Old Mr. Toad's cousin, Sticktoes the Tree Toad, was at that very moment calling. You know, he is supposed to call for rain, but this isn't really true. He does, however, do considerable calling times. Perhaps he thinks he is singing.

Old Mr. Toad kept his goggle eyes fixed on Mr. Rattlesnake. Mr. Rattlesnake reached the foot of the tree and lifted his head, as he looked up in the tree and ran his tongue out. And then suddenly—Old Mr. Toad had a shock. Mr. Rattlesnake was climbing that tree as easily as he glided along the ground. Yes, sir, he was so. He slipped up in that tree with perfect ease. Old Mr. Toad looked up at his cousin. Sticktoes had not yet discovered Mr. Rattlesnake. Suddenly it came over Old Mr. Toad that his cousin wasn't so well off as he looked. What would his Cousin Sticktoes do now? Sticktoes was still sitting there, calling away, as if there was no such thing as fear. Old Mr. Toad wanted to call out to him and warn him. But he didn't dare do this. He was paralyzed with fear. Yes, sir, that was what was the matter with Old Mr. Toad.

Suddenly Sticktoes broke his call off right in the middle. He had heard a rustling. He flattened himself down on the limb until Old Mr. Toad could hardly see him. A moment later the head of Mr. Rattlesnake appeared. He was coming out along that limb. Old Mr. Toad couldn't take his eyes off that dreadful sight. He knew, he just knew, he was going to see his cousin swallowed. He was sure that nothing could save Sticktoes. He was sure that there was nothing that Sticktoes could do. You see, he was, of course, judging Sticktoes by himself.

And then, just as Old Mr. Toad was sure that the end was at hand, Sticktoes suddenly made a flying leap. It was a wonderful jump. At least it was wonderful to Old Mr. Toad. He jumped across to another branch of that tree, and it was so far across that the only way that Mr. Rattlesnake could possibly get there was to go back to the trunk of the tree and around. Sticktoes didn't wait for him to do that. There was the branch of another tree just a short distance away. Sticktoes made another splendid jump and there he was in another tree. Old Mr. Toad actually sighed with

DIET AND HEALTH

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

A Question Box.

"Blessings on your head and a thousand thanks. Have been going to reduce for years just as soon as, but never found anything to induce me to start, until I read your article in our paper. They did the trick and I am 15 pounds lighter and still doing strong. My friend, who he longer, to the 'Too-Thin' is also prepared to do or die, and it surely will be a good deed to your credit if you fatten her and reduce me."

"My most embarrassing moment was (and still is) when a member of the T. T. T. leaves the street car and the conductor says, 'There's a seat for you.'"

"Now for some questions:

1. "Is saccharin harmful to the health?"

Answer: Saccharin is a coal tar product about 500 times sweeter than an equal amount of sugar. It is not considered harmful up to a grain or so a day, but it is best to learn to like your beverages unsweetened. You can allow in your calories a small amount of sugar—one small dominion lump counts only 20 C. There are no calories in saccharin.

2. "Please give me your recipe for the 'magnificent' without calories."

Answer: Mineral oil is a coal tar product. It comes from crude oil which is secured from especially constructed wells drilled in certain sections of the earth. The product is very highly distilled and purified so that all of the impurities are removed. Kerosene, gasoline, naphtha, benzene, etc., all may be secured from the same crude oil, but of course these are not distilled nearly to the extent of the mineral oils which are taken internally, nor are they purified, so they are poisonous to take internally. Mineral oil acts as a lubricant and softener and is good for a certain type of constipation. It is not absorbed by the system, so no calories need be counted.

Mineral oil should not be used too constantly nor in too great amounts, for some later work has shown that it may absorb the vitamin A from foods.

"Milk and buttermilk are nauseating to me. What can I add to the milk to make it palatable, without adding calories? Many calories in a teaspoon of cocoa? A teaspoon of canned tomato soup? May this be added to the milk during liquid diet?"

Answer: Yes, add anything you like to the milk if necessary to make it palatable to you. A level teaspoon of canned tomato soup is about 2 calories. Or, you can add one-half teaspoonful of yeast extract (about 3 C.), which is sold in stores under various trade names, and sometimes is called vegetable extract. It is high in Vitamin B. If you don't get your milk, take a small amount of cheese every day, for cheese is being concentrated milk which you should have. A 1-1/2 inch cube counts 100 C.

4. "Cannot eat poached or boiled eggs. How many calories in a fried egg?"

Answer: The number of calories in a fried egg depends upon the amount of fat which adheres to the egg. A level tablespoonful of any fat is 100 C. One ordinary egg is 75 C.

5. "If craving for sweets gets very pronounced, may a dish of ice cream be substituted for something else?"

Answer: There is no reason why you shouldn't have ice cream occasionally, if you like it. However, it is well to go without the highly concentrated sweets until you don't long for them so much. The caloric value of ice cream varies considerably, depending upon the amount of cream, etc., used. The average commercial ice cream counts 100 C. to the quart.

Those who missed the reducing (and gaining) instructions in the paper may have our pamphlet on the subject. The column rules for obtaining material we offer to enclose two cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope for articles except the reducing and gaining pamphlet, for which ten cents in coin and self-addressed, stamped envelope are necessary.

Tomorrow: Answers to correspondents.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin for each article to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin and fully s. a. s. e. must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

SHIP WILL BRING FLORIDA FRUITS TO NORTH MARKETS

Miami, Fla., June 18.—(P)—The Clyde Steamship company plans to serve northern markets by water with Florida fruits and vegetables under refrigeration next year. Representatives of the company who made public the plan today said they believed the proposed service to be unique.

The company asked the Miami city commission for a ten-year extension of its lease on dock space now occupied, announcing that it wanted the long tenure guaranteed before undertaking construction of a refrigeration plant. It is proposed to spend $100,000 converting cargo space in two boats, $50,000 on the first unit of the plant here and $50,000 on a second unit, when business justifies the expenditure.

DAVIS SAYS G. O. P. CANDIDATES KNOW PROBLEMS OF WEST

Washington, June 18.—(P)—Secretary of War Davis expressed the belief in a statement today that the republican party in nominating Secretary Hoover and Senator Curtis had put forward a presidential ticket which would recognize the problems of the middle west. He added that the candidates, if elected, would be supporters of the nation's inland waterways development.

Secretary Davis emphasized that cheap water transportation was a big factor in bringing relief to the farmers of the middle west. Earlier in the day Davis, who has just returned from the Kansas City convention, conferred with Mr. Hoover.

Theater Damaged.

Cedartown, Ga., June 18.—(Special)—The Grand theater motion picture house was badly damaged by fire early this morning. From evidence discovered it is believed the fire was of incendiary origin. The theater, located in the heart of the business district, is owned by J. H. Wheeler, of Montgomery, Ala.

ATLANTAN SPEAKS BEFORE KIWANIS

Seattle, Wash., June 18.—(P)—An aristocracy founded not upon birth or wealth but upon service was defined today when Henry C. Heinz, of Atlanta, delivered the president's annual message to 6,000 members of Kiwanis International, assembled at the Seattle civic auditorium for their twelfth annual convention.

"In this age where material progress is the prime measurement of success in life," he said, "we are proud to become so devoted to things temporal that we lose sight of the amenities of life. We become wrapped up in making money, in building up business, in controlling politics. We become self centered and self conscious. 'Selfishness is the food upon which selfishness and communism thrive; selfishness has been the source of all misunderstanding and trouble since the world began. Lethargy and indifference toward the public good are the curse of our present life. Many have never tasted the sweets of service, never known the joy of friendship. It is such agencies as Kiwanis that are providing to men of affairs a medium of service."

Heinz' message followed a program of addresses by officials welcoming the Kiwanians to the Pacific northwest.

Now You Can Reduce 2 to 4 Lbs. in a Night

Eat what you please
Wear what you please
Do what you please
Take no risky medicine

Thousands of smart women have found this easy way to take off 2 to 4 pounds once or twice a week. These women take refreshing Fayro baths in the privacy of their own homes. Fayro is the concentrate of the same natural mineral salts that make effective the waters of twenty-two hot springs of America, England and the Continent. For years the spas and hot springs bathing resorts have been the retreat of fair women and well-groomed men. Excess weight has been removed, skins have been made more lovely, bodies more shapely and minds brighter.

The Hot Springs Are Now Brought to You

Painstaking analyses of the active ingredients of the water from twenty-two of the most famous springs have taught us the secret of their effectiveness. You can now have all these benefits in your own bath. Merely put Fayro into your hot bath. It dissolves rapidly. You will notice and enjoy the pungent fragrance of its balsam oils and clean salts.

Then, Fayro, by opening your pores and stimulating perspiration forces lazy body cells to sweat out surplus fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will sleep better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

Your physician will tell you that Fayro is certain to do the work and that it is absolutely harmless.

Fayro will refresh you and help your body throw off worn-out fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will sleep better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

Lose Weight Where You Most Want To

Fayro reduces weight generally, but you can also concentrate its effect on abdomen, hips, legs, ankles, chin or any part of the body you may wish.

Results Are Immediate

Weigh yourself before and after your Fayro bath. You will find you have lost from 2 to 4 pounds. And a few nights later when you again add Fayro to your bath, you will once more reduce your weight. Soon you will be the correct weight for your height. No need to deny yourself food you really want. No need for violent exercise. No need for drugs or medicines. Merely a refreshing Fayro bath in the privacy of your own home.

Try Fayro at Our Risk

The price of Fayro is $1.00 a package. Inside each package you get an interesting booklet, "Health and Open Pores."

If each healthful bath of Fayro does not reduce your weight from 2 to 4 pounds, we will refund your money without a question. You risk nothing.

For Sale at Jacobs' Drug Stores and at all drug and toilet counters.

Build up weight in 3 weeks with new combination of YEAST and IRON —or pay nothing

"Have Gained 10 Pounds"

"It is wonderful what IRONIZED YEAST has done for me. I have gained 10 pounds of solid, firm flesh. There were times when I felt so sad and skinned I was ashamed to go out and meet my friends. Now I am taking on new weight and new life. My husband says I am more like the girl he married eight years ago."—Mrs. W. H. S., Dallas, Tex.

"Complexion Cleared—Gained 12 Pounds"

"Nothing I took was able to look in the mirror. But within two months after starting IRONIZED YEAST I took on over 12 pounds and my complexion cleared up fine."—Mrs. H. H., Paterson, N.J.

"Hated to Look at Self in Mirror"

"I was so skinned I hated to look in the mirror. Right weeks after taking IRONIZED YEAST I had taken on 9 pounds and everybody remarks how wonderful I look."—Miss F. L., Jersey City, N.J.

It seems incredible how fast IRONIZED YEAST adds pounds of good firm flesh—on women and men, children and old people. Doctors know the value of vegetable iron and yeast in building up and improving the body. IRONIZED YEAST, in a highly concentrated form, contains all the blood-building properties of vegetable iron with yeast.

New Complexion for You

People ask—what is the magic in IRONIZED YEAST that transforms sallow, lifeless, faded complexions into the fresh, smooth, lovely skin of early girlhood? Wrinkles disappear. Eyes renew the sparkle of youth. Hollows fill out.

Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one—weight-building Yeast and strengthening Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured yeast concentrated to give the utmost in flesh-producing value.

Only when Yeast is combined in this way is it more effective—for iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening value of Yeast. That's why IRONIZED YEAST works so quickly. So get a generous test treatment—nice, tasty tablets in a handy bottle. No nasty, pasty taste. Do not cause gas or bloating. Safe for everybody—containing no harmful drugs.

Try it on "Money-Back" Offer

Go to any drug store and get a full size treatment. If after this generous trial you are not delighted with effects, ask for your money back. It will be refunded immediately. If inconvenient to buy from drugstore, send $1.00 to the IRONIZED YEAST CO., Atlanta, Ga., Desk 20-17W.

CAUTION! While the amazing health-building value of IRONIZED YEAST tablets has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion, and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, IRONIZED YEAST should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having weight increased to normal.—C. L. Y. Co.

Crackers Batter Baron Hurlers, Win Opener 8 to 5

Poole Doubles With 3 Men On In Fifth

Dumont Hurls for Atlanta; Touched for 13 Hits But Keeps Them Scattered.

Birmingham, Ala., June 18.—Resembling very much the little boy who was sent for but couldn't come, the Barons slowed up temporarily Monday afternoon in their mad dash for half a pennant. They lost a game to Atlanta in which they out-hit the Crackers by 15 to 12. As you know, they don't pay off on hits in this league, but they did on the visitors, acquired themselves a full-fledged victory by the score of 8 to 5. Such acquisition, incidentally, set the barons back a full notch in their drive for the checks won from Mobile to cut the leaders' lead to four and one-half games.

What George Dumont has been unable to do with any degree of consistency for many months as a Little Rock pitcher, he did with remarkable success yesterday. That is, he stopped the Barons cold in their hour of need. Any pitcher that can go out and allow Mr. Poole's hitters to hit him and still win a ball game must have something in the pinches, else a whole lot of runs behind him. While Dumont had a fair supply of runs, they wouldn't have been worth a thin dime in the last analysis if he hadn't been in a position to shut the door on the Barons' fans when they were striving strenuously to enter the room where runs are obtained.

Sluggers Are Easy.

Strangely enough, that hustling young first baseman, who kicking blasted out a victory against Nashville Sunday, was Dumont's net subject of about as he moved down the leaders. Mule was one of the few barons to go hitless and that Dumont had his number is evidenced by the fact that he forced him twice to hit into double plays to nip impending rallies. But Mule might as well have been a sneaking opinion that most any one of the boys that Dobbs could have sent up to bat at the time would have been handled with quite as much dispatch by the victorious Mr. Dumont.

Fred Sheridan was nominated to pitch for the Barons and did so beautifully in three innings and miserably in two others, making it five innings in all. After opening with a shutout, Zoeller and Gilbert had put runners on first and third and a stolen base had put the man on first on second, Sheridan came through in striking style to retire the side score plate and all hands held their breath. Little Rock forced Zoeller at the bases as Poole fired to Simmons and West post-pounded to Yarn.

That was one of the beautiful innings. The other two, he retired the side in order. How about those two miserable innings. If the three beautiful innings were very beautiful, the three miserable ones were very miserable. Take the third, when the Crackers counted three to go ahead of the Barons, who had lost two in their second.

Dumont Started.

Dumont set off the fuse with a single. Zoeller's base on balls and a bunt by Gilbert that Sheridan failed to handle filled the bases. Dumont scored and the other runners advanced on Rhie's long fly to center. Poole's single to left scored two more.

Two bases on balls to Zoeller and Gilbert, and Rhie's bunt that Sheridan again failed to take care of, furnished the starting impetus of Sheridan's second and last hit in the fifth. Jim Poole, who looked like a sure center league catcher on the Crackers' first trip here, did his stuff again in big-league fashion, with a double through the box that cleared the bases. He later scored on West's single.

Sheridan went out after the fifth, giving way to Lefty Vaughn, former Ole Miss southpaw, who pitched for the Barons. They counted only one more run, in the seventh when Rhie singled, was sacrificed to second by Poole, and came home on West's second hit.

Vaughn, who singled his first time up in the sixth to drive a run, was removed in the eighth for a pinch-hitter, who was sacrificed to second by Poole, and came home on West's second hit.

Dumont Tightens Up.

The fact that Barons got the jump on Dumont mattered little to the crafty right-hander, whose curve, once considered the prize twister of the league, was up to some of its old tricks. After Smith's double and Sheridan's out, respectively, he scored Rosefield and Hallenger again in the fourth with only one man out, but nobody could get either man across the plate. Furtman, Simmons and Zoeller followed with a double and opened the fifth with a double and a single. Dumont followed with a walk, but Zoeller, who had replaced Carlyle in right, popped to second and Shirley hit into the first of a pair of double plays in which he was the chief instigator.

A fool-hardy attempt of Yarn Yarn's to take third from Rosefield on the Barons' single to right in the sixth cost the Barons at least one run and maybe more. The Yarn opened with a single down the groove but was an easy out at third when Brock made a nice throw from right field after Rosefield's single. Hallenger chimed in with a triple to right, counting Rosie. He was caught in a chase a moment later.

Cards Halted By Cincinnati Redmen, 3-2

Leaders Battle 14 Innings But Lose to Rivals; Sluggers Step Out.

BY UNITED NEWS.

The mad rush of the St. Louis Cardinals to the National League pennant was momentarily halted Monday by the Cincinnati Reds.

After winning eight straight games, the St. Louis Cardinals were stopped in 14 innings by Ray Kolp's single, which sent Charley Dwyer home with the winning run. The score was 3 to 2. The defeat cut the Cardinals' lead over the Reds to two games.

After blanking the Reds for seven innings, Fred Hunter was hit for seven runs in the eighth when Charley Dwyer's double drove in two runs. Sunny Jim Rice, St. Louis' 14th home run of the season, tied the score in the ninth and sent the game into extra innings.

Adolfo Luque, who started the game for the Reds, gave way to a pinch-hitter in the tenth and Kolp finished the game, receiving credit for the victory.

Golfers Find Tournament Course Hard

Hawkins Describes Olympia Fields Course; Old Man Has It On the Gang.

BY DICK HAWKINS.
Constitution Sports Editor.

Olympia Fields Country Club, June 18.—This epistle to the readers is written in the throes of unbridled emotion—emotion of the primitive type which brooks no interference and knows no bounds. After looking over the 18 holes of the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields Country club, we returned to the seclusion of the clubhouse and broke down in a paroxysm of laughter. Laughter of the ribald kind that swells and echoes with mirth that has no limit.

Why the unseemly mirth on the eve of a great sporting event? Because we do not have to play the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields, that's why. If all the golfing architects of the universe held a convention with the sole purpose of making life extremely difficult for the golfers of that same universe the fourth course at this Chicago suburb would be the natural result.

Do not misunderstand this explosion of emotion. The course is not deformed. It is not unfair. But it is so difficult that the assembled golfers of several nations have been looking away at it for two or three days without even so much as coming within halting distance of par. Some call the course a pain in the neck. Others are so unkind as to speak of it in terms unprintable in this epistle to the public, but one and all are agreed that it is at least a naughty name.

Bob Has Trouble.
Robert Tyne Jones, whom the ladies all want to meet and the gallery follows daily, is in no better fix than the rest of the fraternity. He is finding the course not at all to his advantage. He admits, as all the others do, that golf is having its final examinations this week but thus far in practice he is barely getting passing grades. In this respect he is accompanied by Frank Ball and Charlie Black, the other two Atlanta entries in the golfing follies of 1928. Bob carded a 79 Monday afternoon but he picked up on several holes and this score is largely guess work. Charlie was around 80 and Frank about the same.

The course has a strange faculty of turning good golf into mediocre golf and fair golf into poor. Charlie Black, after finishing his Monday round, voiced the opinion of many others when he said: "I can't understand where the strokes go. You can play fairly good golf and finish each nine in the very high 30's." The Atlanta amateur is hitting the ball fairly well or better but he is not scoring as he must in this tournament. In that he is not alone. The Mellorhous and Compsons and Boomers and Smiths and all the others are following suit and have no trumps.

Greens Are Keen.

Only those who watched the "flight of the putter" at Oakmont can understand such a statement. The greens on this course are so keen that an accurate judgment of putting touch is a matter of weeks of practice. The fairways are excellent in texture but the course is as tight as a fat man's belt. Every hole is so constructed that maximum penalty is levied on wildness yet the length of the layout is so great that the player must not sacrifice distance for direction.

The rough, from the viewpoint of a golfer, is just exactly what General Sherman said war was from the viewpoint of a soldier. It is not the very rough of Solito nor is it the easy rough of Oakmont. It is rank with growth and brooks no wood shots or, for that matter, any full iron shots. Frank Ball turned his droll British wit on the Olympia rough this morning in a conversation with the writer. After looking at the hay fields along the fairway on the first hole we made the very obvious statement, "looks like a mashie rough." The answer came with one of Frank's rare smiles, "mashie—a fellow can't play any club, you know, until he finds his ball."

And the traps! They are omniscient.

Chicago, June 18.—(AP)—Johnny Farrell, of Mamoroneck, New York, is still recognized as the best dressed golfer in the United States.

Competing against such well-known golfers of famed sartorial splendor as Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Leo Diegel, Wild Bill Mehlfors and Aubrey Boomer, of England, Farrell won the title for the second consecutive year today. The fashion contest is held annually before the national open.

Johnny's winning toggery consisted of an entire gray ensemble—a light gray knicker suit, a gray striped shirt and socks and tie to match. His victory gave him $5,000.

Why all the grief? The answer is not simple. The No. 4 course at Olympia Fields presents every golfing grief known to civilized man and at the same time there is not one sign of unfair architecture. The greens are even more beautiful than those at Oakmont and they are keener.

Only those who watched the "flight of the putter" at Oakmont can understand such a statement. ## All Favorites Survive In City Net Tourney

Grant Has Hard Time Winning Over Armstrong in Exciting Match; Doubles Today.

BY WHITNEY CARY.

Dope and form, two elements that are popularly supposed to march hand in hand in a tennis tournament, came perilously close to being sent into the discard Monday afternoon in the city championship at Piedmont park when Billy Armstrong, a young tennis star of this city, came within two games of reducing Bryan Grant to a mere spectator in a second-round match that was easily the feature of the afternoon's heated competition. The score was 6-4, 6-8, 7-5. Grant's narrow escape proved the nearest any of the seeded players came to getting put out and as a result the third round finds all the favorites for the title ready and willing to carry on.

STARS NAMED TO COMPETE IN OLYMPICS

New York, June 18.—The Amateur Athletic union announced today the names of 76 athletes who will represent the east in the final Olympic track and field trials next month.

The first four men in each of the 18 events contested at Yankee stadium Saturday and at Travers Island Sunday will go to Cambridge and in addition the following four men, because of their excellent performances, will be permitted to enter the final tests.

Robert Bruce, Rhode Island state college and E. W. Bowen, former Cornell weight star, hammer thrower; Julius Gilbert, B. A. A. fifth in the steeplechase, and Alan Graning, N. Y. A. C. fifth in the 400-meter hurdles.

Other outstanding athletes of the east, such as Joe Tierney and Hank Russell, who were prevented by injuries from competing or doing their best in the trials at Yankee stadium, have been advised to enter the Olympic development meet at Governor's island next Sunday. This meet also will be a qualifying test for the finals at Cambridge.

The Metropolitan A. A. U. is sending the following winners to Harvard stadium at the expense of the association: Frank Hussey, Jack H. Scholz, Howard Jones, George Levens, Sid Robinson, Carl Ring, Ed Roll, Pat McDonald, Pat McGrath, Johnny Gibson, Frank Titterton and Sol Firth.

Riffe Turned Back.

Memphis, Tenn., June 18.—(AP)—Manager Milton Stock, of the Mobile club of the Southern association announced today that he had turned back outfielder Riffe to Louisville, of the American association and had signed Brakelieff, third baseman from Albany in the Southeastern association.

Babe Ruth Has Eye On Many Marks In Baseball

New York, June 18.—(United News.)—Babe Ruth is laying awake nights thinking up records he wants to break before he retires from baseball, it was learned tonight on the return of the Babe from the west with the Yankees.

Besides hitting 61 home runs this season, the records Babe has his eye on are: Hitting 500 home runs before he quits.

Hitting over 400 before he asks Colonel Ruppert for a new contract.

Leading the league in hitting again.

Hit a home run over the deep centerfield fence at Yankee stadium and one clear over the right field bleachers.

Playing a season at first base.

Jerry Standaert Fined And Given Suspension

Memphis, June 18.—(AP)—Jerry Standaert, Memphis third baseman, today was fined $10 and given a three-day suspension by President John D. Martin, of the Southern association, on recommendation of Umpire Harry Johnson.

The action was the result of a protest Standaert made to Johnson during a game between Memphis and Little Rock yesterday when the umpire ruled Fred Johnson, Memphis pitcher, had not crossed the plate before the third out was made at third base.

Standaert's protest was based on the fact that Johnson had stepped on the plate before the third out was made at third base. Standaert claimed that Johnson had stepped on the plate before the third out was made at third base.

ARCH POWELL ENTERS RACES AT LAKEWOOD

Archie Powell, former Michigan state champion, winner of the feature event of the Southeastern circuit events here two years ago and the pilot who challenged Sig Haugland a year ago and was forced to withdraw because his machine cracked up, will definitely be among the starters in the auto races at Lakewood Park July 4.

Word to this effect was received by Manager Oscar Mills last night in a wire from Powell, who explained that he wants to win back the prestige he believes he lost by backing down in his challenge to the flying Norwegian a year ago.

Whether Powell has heard of the intention to secure the entry of Fred Horey, four-time world champion, could not be ascertained last night; but if the Motor City star is after Horey's scalp, as he was after Haugland's a year ago, he did not mention it in his wire to Mr. Mills.

Horey Is Sought.

The park manager announced yesterday that every effort is being made to lure Horey here for the July 4 running of the 100-mile race. Horey, who has announced that this is his last year on the tracks, Horey, long an idol of Southeastern speed fans, has held many records and won many rich purses on the Lakewood oval, and Manager Mills believes the paddy veteran will enter in an attempt to hang up some speed marks.

Prompted by the entry of Powell and confident that Horey will start here, park and race officials declare that the July 4 starting field will be the greatest ever seen in the south.

Bobby Reeves Sets Pace for Southern Boys in Majors

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Bobby Reeves, the Georgia Tech flash, continues to set the pace for the southern collegians in major league baseball's hitting column, the latest averages disclose. His mark, slightly off from a week ago, is shown at .255 in the weekly figures.

The Washington Infielder has Emile Barnes, former University of Alabama star and now a teammate, as his nearest Dixie collegiate rival. Barnes has an average of .236.

The leaders:

McLarnin, Mandell Meet in Return Go

New York, June 18.—(United News.)—Jimmy McLarnin, Pacific coast light weight, will meet the lightweight champion, Sammy Mandell, in a return bout at Chicago in August. Pop Foster, McLarnin's manager, announced today. Foster said Promoter Jim Mullen had made him an excellent offer for the bout and he would accept it after McLarnin's 10-round bout with Phil McGraw, Detroit Greek, in Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

McLarnin went all the way to Macon to vent Roy Dunn to fight Battling Cox, a rugged chap from Fect Benning. He went to Savannah to line up K. O. Blount, a boy he defeated in a grueling match, to oppose Clyde Glover, and from Palm Beach he landed Florida Whitehead to his best against Gene Thomas, of Atlanta. The first-named two bouts are between middleweights and the last involves welter.

Something of an innovation at negro bouts will be tried this time, with women accompanied by escorts. They admitted free.

Competition seems to have improved the calibre of negro boxing cards offered in Atlanta. For a time Billy Hooper had full sway but of recent weeks L. H. Atkinson has tossed his hat into the ring. Now the two of them are vying for the patronage of white and colored fans alike at their regular weekly shows and as a result the class of fights produced has improved no little.

Thursday night, for instance, Atkinson has three 10-round matches and a battle royal to offer at very reasonable prices at his fistic emporium, Sunset park. While there are no champions or even claimants listed to appear, a series of good, lively scraps is the forecast.

We Declared Our Emancipation!

In our belief, linens have failed the South as wash suits. In our belief, linens must go. The few we have carried over will be sold at prices that will clear our shelves.

Dependability—our watchword—calls for fabrics of definite integrity. Therefore, we have turned to the Good-all Fabrics—Palm Beach and Nurotex—because every test proves them the worthy mates of our own ideals.

And we have gone two steps farther—We are presenting only the newest of the new—the latest patterns of '28. We offer Atlanta and its environs a quality of make and tailoring that does full justice to these fabrics, and to the self-esteem of men who demand the best!

Most of these Palm Beach and Nurotex Suits were tailored especially for us. That means an exclusiveness that cannot be found elsewhere in Atlanta. It means a unique quality of finish that have never been equalled in the world of summer wear!

Gunn Installed as Favorite as Southern Amateur Opens

Qualifying On Today At Dallas

Four Former Champions Expected To Give Atlanta Boy Hard Battle.

Dallas, June 18. (AP)—With the exception of Bobby Jones, three winners of the event, who is at Chicago preparing for the national open, virtually all of the South's leading links stars toured the Brook Hollow course here today in final practice rounds for the 18-hole qualifying tournament tomorrow in the Southern Golf association tournament.

Of squads of golfers who have been getting acquainted with the battle ground during the past week, only Wally Gunn, the Atlanta flash, reports a perfect round. He snared an even 70 his first day out, but since then has ranged around the 75s. Practically every hole on the course calls for perfectly controlled iron shots.

While Gunn is regarded as the outstanding favorite in the field, four former champions are expected to give him a hard battle. They are Harry Elzie, of Asheville, N. C., defending champion; Emmet Spivey, Jr., Memphis, winner in 1929; Glenn Crisman, of Alabama, 1925 titleholder, and C. L. Dwyer, of Dallas, champion in 1915. Each of this quartet has been stroking fine golf in practice rounds.

The Brook Hollow course is recognized as one of the sternest golfing tests to be found in this part of the country. It is a tricky layout, offering constant penalties for shots off the line, and predictions were that a score of 80 would be good enough to qualify in the championship flight of 32 players. The strong winds prevailing during the past week caused many practice scores to soar far above that figure. Par for the course is 70.

Hornsby in Action But Fails To Lift His Big 6 Average

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

With all but two of the Big Six side yesterday, Rogers Hornsby celebrated the lifting of his suspension by gathering two runs and three hits, one of them his fourteenth homer of the season, in a double-header against the Cubs. All of the fireworks the Boston manager provided came in the first game, which the Braves won, 10-2, in which Hornsby went on to hit three times, but because of this drop his batting average remained stationary at .412.

The standing to date:

Billy Mullen Sold.

Kansas City, June 18. (AP)—Billy Mullen, third baseman, has been purchased by the Kansas City American association club from the St. Louis Blues for $10,000. Mullen will report to the Blues from the Dallas Texas league team as soon as he comes to terms with the Kansas City management, it was announced here tonight.

Around the Ring

Walker-Huddins. Bout Will Make Old-Timers Think.

BY FRANK GETTY.

New York, June 18. (United Press).—The grey beards of fistiana, who hark back to the "good old days" and complain about the decadence and business instincts of modern fighters, may have to take it all back when the dust settles after the Walker-Huddins set-to in Chicago, Thursday night.

Two of the grimmest, gamest battlers of the modern prize ring will swing into action that night, with the middleweight championship of the world at stake and as bruising and bloody a spectacle as could be desired is almost certain to ensue.

Both Mickey Walker, the champion, and Ace Huddins, the flaming-haired challenger, have fought their way up through several of the lighter divisions, leaving a double trail of devastation behind them. This will be the Nebraska Wildcat's first important "shot" in the 160-pound class.

Walker, after some years as welterweight king, outgrew the class and passed on the title to Pete LaSalle, of Scranton, in a contest which had to do more with weight-making than leather-slugging.

A Chicago fight with the late "Tiger" Flowers brought the middleweight championship Mickey's way, since when he has defended it ably on both sides of the Atlantic ocean. Some time ago he knocked out Tommy Milligan, Great Britain's best, in London.

Huddins came out of the west a couple of years ago and made a name for himself the first time he left his corner by flattening Young Ruby Goldstein, who was the flashiest lightweight prospect in the ring at the time. As a result, the Nebraska Wildcat in the first round, but Ace got up to murder the popular East Side idol.

The lightweight division was too tight for Huddins, who fought some terrific battles as a welterweight before he outgrew that division as well. Slashing fighters, both of them, Walker and Huddins are accustomed to more give and take than marks the efforts of many contemporary ring artists. The holding and stalling of modern times will not mar their battle.

Walker, quite justifiably, remains a strong favorite. He is bigger than the Ace, more experienced, and a harder puncher. The Nebraska tosses science to the winds at the sound of the first bell. If Mickey is not watchful, he may be slapped to the floor and kept there before the fight has started.

The Chicago fight is only one of three promising affairs in the card. One the same night that Mickey and Ace are going around, Jimmy McLarnin and Jimmie McLarnin will be starting up the arduous, tortuous "come-back" trail in a bout with Phil McGraw at Madison Square Garden, New York, which promises almost as much as the Chicago affair in the way of action.

DOWN THE LINE

***WITH W. O. MCGEEHAN***

NOTIFYING THE NOMINEE.

Speculator, N. Y., June 18.—Picture to yourself the amazement of Mr. Gene Tunney, the heavyweight champion, when he received today a registered letter from Mr. Tex Rickard notifying him that his next opponent would be Tom Heeny and that he was to fight him at the Yankee Stadium on July 26. It is putting it mildly to say that you could have knocked Mr. Tunney down with a straight left jab from a feather—he was that amazed.

Perhaps I am betraying a confidence in making this announcement. It may be that Mr. Rickard still wants to keep the details of the next Battle of the Century an inviolate secret. Of course, it was news to everybody here. When Mr. Tunney withdrew himself to this retreat he had no notion whatever that he was to fight anybody this summer—and, least of all, Mr. Tom Heeny.

At a late hour, Tunney was trying to verify the news conveyed to him in this letter. All of the members of his retinue were quite as surprised. Mr. William McCabe, who was munching a scallion when the news penetrated the dining room, choked on his favorite vegetable and had to be brought to artificial respiration. Lou Fink, the trainer, who was about to embark on a fishing trip to the lake, looked himself by the trousers and was having a hard fight trying to land himself. They gaffed him after a struggle and drew him to the shore.

Even your correspondent, used as he is to hearing news of a startling nature, was taken aback. But despite the astonishment which prevails at Speculator he made his way to the telegraph office to get this news on the wire. It is official now because Mr. Tunney has been notified formally by the referee and there is no revocation than there is of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

After witnessing the surprise of the lightweight champion, one gets some idea as to the utter amazement that must be felt by a presidential nominee when the committee calls upon him to accept the nomination.

Naturally, a man whose name is before one of the national conventions pays no attention to rumors of his nomination in the newspapers even when details of this sort are brought to his attention.

The convention opens the candidate for nomination invariably plugs out his radio in order that he may not be disturbed by rumors from the convention and that he may not be disturbed by the news of his nomination. He sits it out until the arrival of the notification committee a few weeks after the adjournment of the convention.

The chairman of the notification committee hunts him out in his library and with grave countenance says: "We have some surprising news for you. Do you think that you will be able to do it?"

If the nominee is afflicted with a weak heart he naturally replies that he is. Whereupon the chairman of the committee briefly delivers the news in a few hundred thousand well chosen words. Of course, the nominee is unprepared. The mention of the name of the committee is a shock. The mention of the name of the committee is a shock. The mention of the name of the committee is a shock.

The news of the Tunney nomination was brought to him just as he was leaving the hotel after the first boxing stunts of his training period. Naturally he was utterly unprepared. It seemed that he had no notion whatever of the news of his nomination.

When Heeny hears the news. It is reasonable to suppose that Mr. Thomas Heeny received the news of his nomination for the post of logical contender at about the same time. Naturally, Mr. Heeny was not a little prepared for the official notification as was Mr. Tunney.

Your correspondent, being miles from Fair Haven, nevertheless can picture the scene for himself. Mr. Heeny is sitting in his chair in the parlor. Mr. Charles Harvey, the American representative, is sitting in his chair. Mr. Mortimer, who makes books in England, is sitting on his stool. English bookmakers always sit on stools and become so accustomed to them that they cannot sit in chairs.

As the three sit there brooding over Anglo-American matters, a motorcycle messenger rides up with some official looking document addressed to Mr. Heeny. Thomas wrinkles his brow and starts to read. Suddenly he falls off his chair. Startled by this unusual move, Mr. Harvey seizes the document and begins to read. He hardly reads the first paragraph when Mr. Harvey also falls off his chair.

Mr. Mortimer, somewhat nonplussed by the strange actions of his companions, starts to peruse the communication. Mr. Mortimer then falls off his stool and lies very inert on the carpet. An attendant applies restoratives and all three come to after a very long count.

"Strike me pink!" observes Mr. Heeny, as he opens his eyes.

"Strike me jolly well pink!" gasps Mr. Mortimer.

"By jimmie crickets!" says Mr. Harvey.

The document informs them that Mr. Heeny is to fight the heavyweight champion on July 26 at the Yankee Stadium. The news is so startling that it is half an hour before the three are able to resume sitting.

One Way Of Doing It.

It seems that western sports have agreed that unless some means can be worked out to establish parity between the New York Yankees and the rest of the American league the league is certain to go on the rocks before long. This, of course, would mean some drastic circumstances—such as once prosperous baseball magnates selling pencils on the street corners.

In various large cities they have been working on plans to establish the desired parity and to avoid the distressing things that might happen to the magnates. But although some of the great minds of the ivory industry have been concentrating on the problem for a month or more, they have arrived at no conclusion whatever.

It remains for the Speculator Sporting club, of which Pants Lawrence is president, to suggest what seems to be a reasonable solution. The idea is to have the New York Yankees, after opening in New York and playing there for a week, change uniforms and play a week for each city in the American league. This certainly would balance the league as far as the standing of the clubs goes. If the thing could be carried out, the American league would be balanced almost perfectly, and at the end of the clubs

FIGHTS

Charlotte, N. C., June 18.—Alex Hart, Cleveland, 181, knocked Bobby Cox, Tampa, 150, in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round fight here tonight.

Spike Webb, Charlotte, won the decision over Dave Edelman, also of Charlotte, in an eight-round semifinal. But Spittle, Charlotte, and Rufus Miles, Columbus, Ga., fought an eight-round draw in the other semifinal bout of the card staged as a benefit for the widow of John Elliott, who before his recent death was making here.

Philadelphia, June 18.—(AP)—Law Teller, Philadelphia, won a one-time a leading contender for the lightweight title when he defeated Benny Leonard, fought his last fight tonight. He stopped Nate Goldman, also of Philadelphia, in the fifth round of a 10-rounder. After Goldman was knocked down four times in the fifth round, the referee halted the bout. Teller weighed 151; Goldman 144.

Philadelphia, June 18.—Pete Nabo, Sambo, Indian, from Florida, proved a better fighter than Benny Bass, Philadelphia, featherweight, in a rain-soaked outdoor ring tonight, and won the decision after ten rounds of rough and tumble fighting. Nabo weighed 125; Bass 125.

Philadelphia, June 18.—It is a good finale for a course as hard as any in the United States.

Number 18 is a 480-yard par five—

New Orleans, June 18.—(AP)—Business in the cotton market today was active and consisted mostly of trade buying on numerous unfavourable crop reports and profit-taking by early purchasers. An advance of approximately $2 a bale was followed by a reaction in the afternoon trading and October contracts eased off from 20.25 to 20.27, closing at the latter figure, or a net gain of 30 points. The general market closed steady, 28 to 30 points net.

Liverpool cables were 6 to 10 penny points better than due and first traders here showed gains of 2 to 4 points. This was a poor response to the cable and the firmness shown in New York but the local market adjusted itself with the other cotton areas after the start when July sold up to 20.45, October 20.18 and December 20.14, or 18 to 21 points above Saturday's closing quotations.

The market was on the upgrade for practically the whole morning session. Buying was stimulated by a forecast for further unsettled weather in the belt as well as reports of crop damage from over the belt including damaging hail, sandstorms and wind in the west and grassy fields, deficient cultivation and greater weevil activity in the eastern portion. Private advisers stated that recent storms in the western belt destroyed a large amount of young cotton making extensive replanting necessary.

These influences carried prices up 38 to 41 points which represent a gain of practically $2 a bale over Saturday's close. When the market began to be supplied, however, recent buyers began taking profits which occupied most of the final trading. July closed at 20.45, October 20.17 and December 20.25, or 28 to 30 points up from the day.

Receipts 4,070; for week 8,240; for year 8,336,033; last year 12,679,043. Exports 13,815; for week 22,646; for season 1,253,534; last season 10,488,522. Stock 960,743; last year 1,350,593. Stock on shipboard 98,859; last year 83,703. Spot sales 5,738; last year 6,163.

RAID REPORTS.
New Orleans, June 18.—(AP)—Reports of overflows in the Mississippi valley with prospects for showers in the south, and increasing boll weevil infestation, were reflected in advances of about $2 a bale in the cotton market today. October sold up to 20.45, or 41 points net higher, but the advance was checked by realizing, and the close was several points off from the best. The final tone was firm at net gains of 28 to 44 points in early afternoon. Reports that cotton was being damaged by high or hot winds, and that there was no doubt contributed to the advance, while the market seemed to pay less attention to reports from the stock market. Offering increases as prices worked above 20.50 for October, which led to setbacks, but the reaction brought in renewed buying from Liverpool cables. Trading was comparatively quiet at the start, but became more active as prices worked upward, and particularly after publication of the official forecast for showery weather over the greater part of the belt. Prospects for additional showers following the official forecast, and a considerable impression on sentiment and there was a broadening of commission house demand as well as some trade buying and covering on the advance which followed.
